ATLANTA'S ACTION IS UP TO HORNSBY

Fulton Chief Defends Practice After Crash Killing 1, Injuring 2
Brings Protest Storm.

Curbing of the police practice of wild chases of liquor cars, auto handicaps or speeders through the crowded streets of Atlanta, at imminent peril of the lives of citizens, was demanded yesterday by leading citizens and officials alike, following the crash Wednesday night in which one man was killed and two others suffered injuries.

Steps to end this practice and at the same time work out some better means of enforcing the laws will be taken at meetings of both city and county police committee, to be held today and tomorrow morning.
Mayor Hartsfield yesterday afternoon joined in condemnation of unnecessary speeding by police cars, endangering the lives of citizens upon the streets of Atlanta, but added he had complete confidence in the ability of Chief M. A. Hornsby to handle the situation.

Entirely to Chief.
"Like all others," said the mayor,
"I am opposed to unnecessary endangering of the lives of the public, but I will leave it entirely in the hands of Chief Hornsby to issue such orders to the city police as he believes will best meet the situation, protecting the public and at the same time offering no encouragement to criminals."

Chairman G. Dan Bridges, of the police committee of city council, with Councilmen Cecil Hester and John T.
Marler, members of the committee, said yesterday that drastic action will be taken at the meeting of that body tonight.
"I think such cases ought to be stopped," said Chairman Bridges.
"It is, to my mind, utterly unwise for city police to indulge in such chases that endanger the lives of the public," said Councilman Marler.
"I am opposed to police cars traveling at recklessly high speeds, under any circumstances and am particularly horrified at the thought of the danger our school children incur by such practices," said Councilman Hester.

Commissioners to Meet.
County Commissioner Edwin F.
Johnson, chairman of the county police committee, has called a special meeting of that body, together with Chief George Mathieson and other members of the county police force, for 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the offices of the commission on the fifth floor of the Fulton courthouse. Other members of the police committee are Commissioners J. A.
Ragsdale and Dr. Charles R. Adams, while special invitations to attend have been extended to the remaining two members of the county board, N. L. Almond and George F. Longino.
At the same time, Commissioner Johnson invited any citizens who had specific instances of reckless chases by county police cars, endangering life or safety of the general public, to appear at the meeting and lay their complaints before the committee.
"We intend to stop the danger involved in this practice," said Johnson,
"but at the same time intend to improve the police force."

Flood 'Boils' Peril
New Orleans Levee

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—(AP)— (Friday)—A sandhill appeared late last night about 75 feet from the foot of the levee at Sabin street, 23 blocks below Canal street, main thoroughfare of New Orleans.
Prisoners from the nearby house of detention were sent to combat the waters and United States engineers were summoned to the scene.
A short time later another sandhill developed, and approximately three square blocks of a residential area were covered by water to a depth of 18 inches.
All available police, headed by Superintendent George Reyer, were called out.

Capacity Audience Attends Session of Cooking School

Miss Ruth Chambers Gives Third Lecture and Demonstration at Paramount Theater; 'Entertaining at Home' Is Subject for Today.

Another capacity crowd was entertained and instructed in the art of modern cooking yesterday morning when Miss Ruth Chambers, noted culinary expert, gave the third in her series of lectures and demonstrations of "Foods of the Nation," the cooking school being presented to Atlanta at the Paramount theater by The Constitution.

Day by day during the school, enthusiasm and attendance have increased as more Atlantans are made familiar with the enjoyable features of the sessions and the magic of Miss Chambers' cooking methods, which are so easily duplicated in the housewife's own kitchen.

The latest methods of modern cookery, as developed in the research laboratories and kitchens of the National Live Stock and Meat Board and allied organizations, are brought each morning to Atlantans, at the popular cooking school classes. Residents of Atlanta and surrounding cities have shown their appreciation of the worth of these sessions by their increasing attendance and their increasingly enthusiastic comments.

Miss Chambers yesterday told her housewife would like to know how to do and more instruction along the same line will be offered by Miss Chambers in the closing session this morning under the title, "Entertaining at Home."

Packed with information that will solve the most puzzling home entertainment problems, today's class will prove a boon to every housewife who expects "company for dinner," guests at luncheon, tea, receptions,

BOARD OF REGENTS HEADED BY SMITH AS BEAVER RESIGNS

Lawyer Retakes Place as Chairman Following Nomination by Colonel in "Abdication" Speech; Deposed by Talmadge.

RIVERS EXPRESSES DELIGHT AT ACTION

'Star Chamber' Sessions Abolished: Request for Funds To Be Considered at Meeting Here Today.

Marion Smith, removed last year by Governor Talmadge from the chairmanship of the Board of Regents, yesterday was restored to that position by the board. He had been re-appointed a member by Governor Rivers.

The selection of Mr. Smith as chairman was made on motion of Colonel Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, a Talmadge-appointed member of the board, who had been serving since the removal of Mr. Smith a year ago.
E. Ormonde Hunter, of Savannah, another Talmadge appointee, seconded the motion of Colonel Beaver, as did Judge M. D. Dickerson, of Douglas, a Russell-appointed member of the board who is now considered a Talmadge follower. Governor Rivers, an ex-officio board member, expressed his approval of Colonel Beaver's action and the restoration of Mr. Smith to the chairmanship.

The board abandoned a policy established at its creation six years ago, that of holding its meetings behind closed doors. On motion of Governor Rivers the meeting was opened to newspapermen and Chairman Smith announced that the policy would be continued in the future. The Governor's motion was seconded by Major Clark Howell, of Atlanta. It brought opposition from Mr. Hunter and from W. H. Milam, of Cartersville, but when the vote was taken only Mr.
Hunter voted against it, Mr. Milam not voting.

The board received and approved

GEORGIA BAR BILL BEATEN IN HOUSE

Measure To Incorporate Georgia Lawyers Lacks
Three Votes To Pass.

The house of representatives failed by three votes yesterday to pass a "Georgia Bar Bill" after involving the state administration in a two-day debate.

Actually receiving a majority of the votes cast, the measure failed to muster the necessary 103 constitutional majority in a 100-77 tally. Any member who voted on the bill was have until reading the journal at today's session to move reconsideration.

Meanwhile the senate labored over the administration sponsored highway patrol measure which already has been approved by the house. The senate neared completion on the bill at adjournment and is expected to give it final approval today.

Numerous amendments were offered to the house approved bill and it is certain to go back to the lower body for concurrence which now does not seem likely before next week.

Rivers Named In Debate.
While house leaders in Governor Rivers' administration held he had adopted an impartial attitude toward the bar bill, his name came into the debate several times.

Several proponents of the measure, among them Coleman of Lowndes county, declared the Governor, then speaker of the house, had favored the measure in 1935.

As Peace Terms Were Signed, Ending 44-Day Strike

Formal settlement of the 44-day-old General Motors automobile strike was effected at this conference in Detroit yesterday, when peace terms were signed. Seated at the table are (left to right), Wyndham Mortimer, first vice president, United Automobile Workers of America; Governor Frank Murphy, of Michigan; William S. Knudson, executive vice president of General Motors, and James F. Dewey, of the federal Department of Labor. Other union and motor company officials are shown in the background.

FROST HITS CROPS OF DIXIE FARMERS

Heavy Losses Counted in Some Areas as Cold Follows Early Spring.

Southern farmers yesterday counted heavy losses from the spring that came too soon, followed by the frost of Wednesday night.

With a prediction of fair weather extending for at least 36 hours, came a forecast of a low temperature of 30 degrees for this morning, with the mercury during the day climbing higher than the top mark of 46 degrees registered yesterday.

Hamilton Rails, of the Georgia Department of Agriculture, estimated losses as high as 50 per cent were sustained by orchards in some sections of the state.

Rails said the estimates came from growers of Florida and Illinois. There are plenty of buds unharmed, he added, to make a good crop.

South Georgia county agents said there was no damage to tobacco and truck crops. Tobacco plants were well covered and cabbage plants have advanced far enough to resist extreme cold.

Fruit Harvest Hit.
Fruit blossoms which flourished in January's balmy weather only to be killed by freezing blasts this week were the hardest hit of crops suffering from the mix-up in seasons.

A survey of Georgia's peach belt indicated a spotty condition in some sections. Some orchardists said they might have a normal crop if temperatures do not go lower. Others said production would be far below normal.

Weeks ago a Montezuma, Ga., grower planted chunks of ice at the base of his peach trees, hoping to keep them from budding before the freeze.
A check was sought to determine if this innovation worked.

Tennessee Peaches Hit.
"In Tennessee about 50 per cent of the peach buds were killed, reducing the yield to a medium crop," said Dr. Brooks D. Drain, University of Tennessee horticulturist.

"Early blooming plums were killed entirely. Apples and pears were sufficiently dormant so their yield will not be affected very much."

The federal service "frost warning

Fulton High Closed For Funeral Today

All schools of the Fulton county system will remain open today, with the exception of Fulton High school, which will close its classrooms out of respect to Wiley M.
Suttles, a teacher at the school for 15 years, whose funeral services will be held this morning.

Jere A. Walls, superintendent of county schools, said there had been a misunderstanding as to the closing of the schools today and all schools except Fulton High will remain open.

FORCED EXPANSION SAID NAZI COURSE

Economic Aid Recourse Pointed To by Dr. Buell; Farm Tenancy Discussed.

Failure of the Nazi regime, to achieve its social objectives unless the country expands by force or accepts an economic settlement meeting German needs is considered one of the foremost problems facing Europe today by Dr. Raymond L. Buell, president of the Foreign Policy Association.

"It is a curious paradox that the only states liquidating capitalism are the Fascist countries," Dr. Buell said.

PROGRAM FOR TODAY
10 A. M.—Dr. Edwin R. Embree, "The Value of Divergent Currents."
8 P. M.—Dr. Francis B. Sayre, "Trade Agreements and the Good Neighbor Policy."

"Germany is carrying on many interesting social experiments, the effect of which is to strengthen the middle class and diminish class distinction."

Dr. Buell, termed the "best authority on foreign affairs" by his intro-ducer, Charles Snyder, advertising director of The Constitution, spoke yesterday morning at the Emory Institute of Citizenship and was principally concerned with the future of the world.

STRIKERS PARADE FROM 3 PLANTS

Line More Than a Mile Long Formed as Groups Pile Into Automobiles.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP)— Evacuation of the strikers occupied General Motors plants here, in accordance with the strike settlement agreement reached in Detroit, began at 4:40 p. m. (Atlanta time) today, when men who have held Fisher Body plant No. 1 since December 30, began leaving the building.

Forming a procession the several hundred occupants of Fisher plant No.
1, paraded to Fisher No. 2, where they were to be joined by the sit-down strikers there and then proceed to Chevrolet plant No. 4, to complete the evacuation.

The first group to leave Fisher No.
1 was a body of about 50 men who snaked their way out of the building entrance, with one man pounding a large drum.

The strikers immediately entered automobiles which formed a double line more than a mile long, for the five-mile parade to Fisher plant No.
2. Automobile horns kept up a continuous din for 15 minutes just before the parade.

School House Clause In Beer Law Invalid

The Georgia supreme court yesterday knocked out the provision in the Georgia beer law against the sale of beer and other alcoholic beverages within 100 yards of a school building.
The high court reversed the ruling of the Atlanta criminal court fining Leo McCaffrey $100 or 12 months for selling beer within 100 yards of the Lula Kingsbury school in the city of Atlanta.

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell Sr. wrote the opinion for the supreme court. He said the title of the beer bill refers to malt beverages only, while the section held to be unconstitutional covers "alcoholic beverages of any kind" and is therefore much broader than the title.

Kidnaper of Ottley Shot in Miami Holdup

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—City Detective J. L. Dees said a man assuredly wounded last Monday in an attempted holdup admitted tonight he was James Pryor Bowen, who participated in the 1933 kidnaping of John K. Otley Sr., Atlanta banker.

Bowen was wounded when J. W.
Dyer, liquor store owner, fired upon four men who commanded him to hold up his hands. Bowen, shot in the abdomen, was brought home by three companions.

The patient freely said he was the Bowen who aided William R. Dellinski, 29, of Miami, in the Otley kidnaping. Dellinski now is serving 21 to 28 years. Bowen's father killed himself in Lavana, Ga., two days after the son's arrest in 1933.

Ottley was abducted July 6, 1933, by a youth and an older man who boarded his automobile as the banker left home. He effected his release a few hours later, he told police, by "gentle persuasion" of Bowen, left to guard him.

Help Needed To Don Royal Undies? That's Question Before King George

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(UP)—King-George VI, one of the most modest monarchs in British history, tonight faced the decision of whether to let the Earl of Ancaster help him into the royal underwear when he gets out of bed on coronation day.

The King also must decide whether to give the royal pajamas—and even the royal bed—to the 68-year-old earl who will preside over the May 12 coronation ceremonies as Lord Great Chamberlain of the Realm.

The Earl of Ancaster, whose wife is the former Eloise Laurence of New York, insists on helping the King into his underwear and falling heir to the monarch's pajamas.

He appeared before the court of coronation claims in the offices of the privy council on Downing street today, and had a lawyer on hand to help him.

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—(AP)— Formal acceptance of peace terms ended today the most widespread strike ever to paralyze American automobile assembly lines.

The eight-point agreement signed by representatives of General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America composed many of the differences aired in 44 days of bitter labor dispute.

Remaining issues will be negotiated in discussions between corporation and union starting February 16.

The union was accorded recognition as representing its members in the corporation's 69 automotive plants. In 20 plants where strikes are in progress, General Motors agreed not to bargain, without the sanction of the governor of the state, with any other group on "matters of general corporation policy."

More than 100,000 idle employes of the nation's largest motor car producer will return to their jobs next week at wages increased 5 cents an hour. The wage increase, approximating $25,000,000 annually, was announced by General Motors coincident with the strike settlement.

Evacuation Begun.

Union officers tonight began the evacuation of several hundred sit-down strikers in Fisher Body Company plants at Flint, Mich., "trouble center" of the dispute, where riots caused 3,300 Michigan national guardsmen to be concentrated. These strikers defied two court injunctions to hold their positions since December 30.
General Motors agreed to discontinue injunction proceedings against the union, its officers and members at Flint and Cleveland, Ohio. The Flint injunction had made the union men-liable to a $15,000,000 penalty.

The ceremonies of signing the peace pact in a crowded recorder's courtroom in the county building here came as an anti-climax to the dramatic announcement at 1:35 a. m. (Atlanta time) by Michigan's 43-year-old bachelor governor, red-headed Frank Murphy, that—

"An agreement has been reached."
This brief statement in a downtown hotel where John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization, anticipated final conferences at the bedside where he lay ill with a severe cold, ended eight days and nights of meetings which

Cobb Says: February Is Doing Pretty Well

By IRVIN S. COBB.
(Copyright, 1937, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Feb. 11.
For the shortest month in the year,
February does pretty well by herself, although she brings us the birthdays of two Americans who have not been extensively duplicated since they passed on.

In fact, it is hard for even the oldest inhabitant to recall when we seemed to be producing a smaller average of Washingtons and Lincolns than at this writing.

Every now and then, there pops up a self-rising statesman, still in the adolescent or summer plumage, who thinks he already has practically everything Washington ever had except possibly those false teeth, which, in his later portraits, made the father of his country look as though he'd just bitten down on a bad oyster.

Or perhaps the newcomer is one who fondly fancies that he's another Washington, and that he's already perhaps, but due to fruit forth in glory just as soon as the pollen blows off of his lofty young brow.

But something always seems to happen. Anybody almost can be a good press agent for himself, but unless he produces the goods, the production flops.

It's too bad, too. Right now, we could do with a few Lincolns and a fresh crate of Washingtons.

AWAITS COURT RULING
NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—An agreement today to await a United States supreme court decision on the actual domicile of the late Colonel Edward H. H. Green halted hearings on the contested will of the son of the fabulously wealthy Hetty Green until March 17.

Surrogate Harry E. Owen ordered a continuance in the hearing of the suit brought by Green's widow, Mrs. Mabel Harlow Green, to break the will leaving an estate—sprawled over several states and appraised at from $50,000, 000 to $80,000,000—to the colonel's sister, Mrs. Sylvia Wilks.

'SUPER FLOOD' EBBS, DEATH AND DISEASE DEPOSITED IN WAKE

460 Killed; Million Homeless in Ohio and Mississippi Valleys.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The "super flood" of 1937 receded slowly today along half of the Mississippi river's winding course to the Gulf, leaving in its wake death, disease and inestimable property damage.

While the death toll had reached 460 in the valleys of the Ohio and Mississippi and tributaries and the homeless figure fluctuated around 1,000,000, there was no official estimate of the damage inflicted by the churning waters.

The flood cost would include such items as evacuation damage to thousands of homes, loss of personal belongings and live stock and the maintenance of rescue and relief forces that drew into the fight the army, navy, coast guard, national guard, CCC and WPA workers and the Red Cross.

Fix Damage at $550,000,000. Several days ago an estimate of the damage was placed at $550,000,000. That figure, for the most part, represented destruction along the Ohio valley.

Even though United States engineers, cheered that their battle in defending chains of the billion-dollar levee system as far south as Helena apparently had won, did not relax in their keen watch along the waterfront as the Mississippi rolled slowly southward.

In addition to the thousands of dollars being spent on relief and rescue work, there were unestimated costs heaped on the purchase of sandbags and the employment of labor—the chief weapon used in the fight against flooding waters.

Medical Aid Costs. Hospitalization and rehabilitation costs will run high.

The flood crest, in passing Chickasaw bluffs guarding Memphis' business district from the ravages of the muddy stream, established a record height—more than three feet above the level of the 1913 waters and still higher than the stages reached in 1927.

No Damages at Cairo. Practically all danger was over for Cairo, where the levee laborers toiled for several days to protect, strengthen and heighten the sea wall protecting the city from disaster. The same was true for Hickman, Ky., New Madrid, Mo., and intervening points on the water front southward to Helena.

Backwaters, however, continued to force additional families from their homes in sections of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana. And the flood-fighting army maintained a 24-hour guard along with the cresting river.

FLOOD RELIEF MEASURE SIGNED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed tonight a bill creating a $200,000,000 government corporation for making loans to victims of the Ohio and Mississippi floods.

The measure, which also provides for assistance for those who have lost other disaster in 1937, was introduced in congress yesterday by Senators Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, and Rulick, Democrat, Ohio. It was hurried through passage by both branches of congress today.

The measure was designed to provide a source of credit for those unable to meet collateral requirements of other government and private lending agencies. The disaster loan corporation would function as a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which would provide the capital.

The bill was reported favorably by the senate banking committee this morning, passed by the senate without dissent and sent to the house.

WENDEL KIDNAPING IS RESTED BY STATE

Counsel for Defendants Asks for Conference With Jury Absent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The state closed its case late today against three of five men indicted for the kidnaping of Paul H. Wendel. Counsel for the defendants immediately asked for a conference with the jury absent.

The state rested after an assistant district attorney concluded the reading of grand jury testimony recorded from Martin Schlozman, one of the three men on trial.

The state has attempted to prove that Schlozman, Murray Bleefeld and Harry Weiss participated in kidnaping Wendel at the direction of Ellis Parker, a New Jersey detective, and his son, Ellis Jr., and then tortured him to extort a false "confession" that he abducted the infant son of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.—all in an attempt to save Bruno Hauptmann from execution for the crime.

VANDERBILTS ARE BACK FROM LUXURY FLIGHT

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Commodore and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt flew in today from a 14,000-mile circuit of South America in their luxurious private "clipper" plane.

Making the long flight with the Vanderbilts were Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Huntington, of New York. After clearing customs, the Vanderbilts went to their estate on Terminal island in Biscayne bay and the Huntingtons to Palm Beach.

STABILIZATION IS URGED OF U. S. FARM PRODUCTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Gardner Jackson, chairman of the National Committee on Rural Social Planning, a private organization, said today that stabilizing prices of farm products and land is necessary to solution of the farm tenancy problem.

Jackson appeared before the house agriculture committee on the $500,000,000 Bankhead-Jones farm tenancy bill as a representative of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Association.

He said he favored the bill, but called its provisions for low-interest, long-time farm purchase loans "experimental."

Woman, 61, Confesses Arson of 15 Years Ago

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A 61-year-old woman who said "I want to end my persecution" told police she set fire to a store and postoffice at Minter City, Miss., 15 years ago.

The woman, Mrs. Willie McRae, was held today on a technical charge of vagrancy while police investigated her story.

Detective Captain James McCarr said Mrs. McRae described in detail how she soaked rags in kerosene and set fire to the building in 1922.

Police Use Machetes To Disperse Rioters

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Police dispersed an anti-government student gathering today by swinging the flats of their machetes against the backs of demonstrators.

The students met in protest against the arrest of between 200 and 300 students in Caracas yesterday, when officers broke up a riot in which a policeman and a student were killed.

HUGH M. FREER DIES

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Hugh M. Freer, 68, vice president of Standard Brands, Inc., died in a hotel here today after a heart attack. He was in charge of the company's traffic, purchasing, equipment, real estate and construction departments.

MURDER, SUICIDE RULED IN DEATHS

Floridan Killed Wife and Then Took Own Life, Jury Declares.

FORT PIERCE, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A coroner's jury returned a verdict of premeditated murder and suicide in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Williams whose bodies were found at their home five miles west of here yesterday.

A number of persons were questioned in connection with the case here this morning, the jury returning the verdict near noon. No motive was brought out in the questioning and no evidence was produced to show that Mr. and Mrs. Williams had quarreled.

It was presumed that Mr. Williams shot his wife with both barrels of shotgun, left one gun in the kitchen, then went to a servant's shack several hundred feet from the house, set fire to it and then placed the muzzle of a rifle in his mouth and killed himself.

LINDBERGH VISIT BALBO IN AFRICA

Flying Couple Greeted by Noted Fascist Airmen in Libya.

TRIPOLI, Libya, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The flying Lindberghs came to this North African city today from Sicily for a visit with General Italo Balbo, governor of Libya. Balbo, who led the great mass flight of Italian planes from Italy to Chicago and back in 1933, welcomed the American aviator and his wife at his palace, where they will remain during their stay. The colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh landed at Mellaha airport at 3:20 p. m. (8:20 a. m., Atlanta time), after making a stop at Tunis on their journey from Palermo, Sicily. Balbo himself only this morning flew to Tripoli from Rome, where he previously had greeted the Lindberghs. (The flying couple, who started their trip in their new monoplane from Lympne airport in England February 1, left Palermo at 9:07 a. m. (Making the short hop across the Mediterranean, they landed at Tunis. Mrs. Lindbergh did not leave the plane during their one-hour stay for refueling and completing customs formalities before taking off for Tripoli.)

BRITAIN WILL BORROW 2 BILLIONS FOR ARMS

Expending of 850 Millions in Building Up Defense in 1937 Is Planned.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Admitting its present revenues could not take care of its rearmament program, the British government disclosed today it would float a defense loan of "not more than" $2,000,000,000. The announcement came from Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons. During 1937 alone, he said, Britain will spend $850,000,000 in building up her defensive strength for any eventualities.

Spend Sum in 5 Years.

The loan, Chamberlain said, will be expended within the next five years. He declared the government soon will introduce a bill to obtain the general power to borrow money or to use surpluses for defense.

The chancellor of the exchequer made no statement on where the money would be sought. Authoritative sources said it could not be borrowed in the United States because the Johnson act forbids American loans to nations which have defaulted war debt payments, and Britain is one of these.

Speculation arose over whether Chamberlain's announcement was timed to coincide with a visit by German Ambassador von Ribbentrop to Viscount Halifax, the lord privy seal, to make Germany's formal demand for restoration of the colonies she lost in the World War.

Eden Vacationing.

Viscount Halifax is acting as foreign secretary in the absence of Anthony Eden, who is holidaying on the Riviera.

Observers, linking the rearmament announcement and von Ribbentrop's call, pointed out that both Britain and France have often said a general European settlement must precede any colonial concessions to Germany.

NOVEL, NOT OBSCENE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Magistrate Henry H. Curran held today that James T. Farrell's novel, "A World I Never Made," was not obscene, and vacated a warrant obtained against its publishers, the Vanguard Press, by John S. Sumner, of the Society for the Suppression of Vice.

$3,000,000 IS SOUGHT FOR FULTON'S ROADS

Delegation Leaving Tomorrow To Seek Fund for 434-mile Network.

Chairman George F. Longino, of the county public works committee, will head a delegation of Fulton citizens to Washington tomorrow in an effort to secure $3,000,000 for the construction of a 434-mile network of farm-to-market and school roads in the county.

Accompanying him will be Commissioner Ed L. Almand, former chairman of public works; A. Steve Nance, president of the Georgia Federation of Labor; and Walter C. Hendrix, former county commissioner.

The delegation will be joined in Washington by Congressman Robert Ramspeck, who has promised the county commissioners his aid in securing the funds.

A tentative report of the proposed network and cost estimates for constructing same were presented to the commissioners yesterday by E. E. Yantis, county surveyor, and final blueprints will be supplied the delegation tonight, it was reported.

The proposed program would give old Campbell county 161 miles of school, mail and farm-to-market road paving; old Milton county 147 miles and old Fulton approximately 125 miles. The first named districts have only two paved roads each, Yantis said.

Under the program, the county has been divided into eight districts and every possible road leading from farm communities to their markets have been included in the survey and estimates, Yantis said.

It was estimated paving and grading will cost approximately $7,500 per mile.

The proposed program must be approved by the county commissioners, the State Highway Board, and the federal authorities before work can begin, it was announced.

Ship Wrecked in '88 Washes on N.J. Shore

MANASQUAN, N. J., Feb. 11. (AP)—Recreators made rich pickings of copper and brass today from the broken hull of an Italian bark, washed onto the shore from the shifting sands where it lay imprisoned for half a century a few hundred feet off Squan beach.

Captain S. Bartley Pearce, veteran skipper and boat builder, identified the wreck as that of the Civitas Carrera, which he saw pile up on the outer bar in a gale on June 28, 1888.

The part of the hull which had been buried in the sand was in almost perfect condition, Captain Pearce estimated the bark was 165 feet long, of 800 tons, with a 40-foot beam.

F. D. R.'S COURT PLANS ATTACKED, DEFENDED

Representative Maverick Accuses Tribunal of Being 'Ignorant of Facts.'

NEW YORK, Feb. 11. (UP)—Ten persons in three cities tonight attacked and defended President Roosevelt's judicial reform program in a radio forum on "Should the President's Proposals Regarding the Supreme Court Be Adopted?"

Speaking over America's Town Meeting of the Air from New York, Representative Maury Maverick, of Texas, accused the supreme court of being "largely ignorant of present-day facts," while Constitutional Attorney Frederick H. Wood declared that the President's bill would "undermine the independence of the court."

Senator Hugo L. Black, of Alabama, and Senator William H. King, of Utah, debated the issue from Washington, and speakers from Chicago were Judge Edward B. Casey, Judge Frank M. Padden, former President Alice Greenacre, of the Women's Bar Association; President Louis A. Stebbins, of the Chicago Life Insurance Lawyers' Club; Attorney Philip R. Davis, of the Chicago Bar Association, and Attorney Robert M. Golding.

MANGET GIVEN CUP BY HOME FOR GIRLS

President of Institution Is Honored by Directors for 24 Years of Service.

"In appreciation of 24 years of faithful service as president of the Atlanta Churches Home for Girls," a silver loving cup was presented John Manget, local church and civic leader, by the members of the board of directors of the institution at their luncheon meeting yesterday.

The presentation was made at the Buford home, first of five homes founded, and as yesterday marked the birthday of the president, Manget's colleagues gave him a huge birthday cake.

In presenting the cup and cake to Manget, the directors called attention to his gifts of more than $100,000 from personal funds for the support of the home. Under his direction, the homes now provide comfortable living quarters for 257 working girls and over the years have given shelter to approximately 17,000.

POPE MUCH IMPROVED BY LAMP TREATMENT

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 11. (UP)—Pope Pius said today "I never felt so good since my illness," while the Vatican quietly celebrated the eighth anniversary of the signing of the Lateran treaties.

The Pope's improved condition was due largely to sun lamp treatments which Professor Aminta Milani prescribed.

How would you like to give each member of your family a home-made ice cream valentine, clever in design and easy to make? This ice cream valentine will add a touch of festivity to your dinner table which will make February 14 long remembered. Here is the way to make the valentine and two other attractive ice cream desserts:

One quart strawberry ice cream, 1-2 cup whipping cream, fresh strawberries.
Pack ice cream smoothly into a freezing tray and place in freezing compartment for 30 minutes. Whip cream until stiff and slice strawberries. Mark ice cream into serving portions and with a pastry tube pipe whipped cream onto surface in a lace design with a heart in the center. Fill the heart with sliced strawberries. Return tray to freezing compartment for at least 3 hours. To serve, cut between individual valentines and lift onto chilled plates with chilled pancake turner. Serves 5 to 6.

Devil's Food Ice Cream Loaf.
One quart vanilla ice cream, thin layer chocolate devil's food cake. Line a freezing tray with waxed paper. Pack half the ice cream into tray, cover with a layer of cake cut to fit and pack rest of ice cream firmly and smoothly on top. Add another layer of cake and place in freezing compartment for three hours. Turn onto chilled platter, peel off waxed paper, pipe whipped cream on top and slice. Serve on chilled plate. Serves eight to ten.

Ice Cream Cup Cakes.
Pack firm vanilla ice cream into crinkle cups. If cups are made of thin paper, use double. Hold cups with towel to avoid warming them with hands. Set cups in freezing compartment while mixing the following frosting:

One-fourth pound butter, 2 cups confectioners' sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons hot strained stiff coffee.

Cream butter and gradually work in 1 cup of the sugar, then the vanilla and 1 tablespoon of the coffee. Add rest of sugar and coffee slowly, beating until smooth. Spread frosting on ice cream "cup cakes" and sprinkle with chocolate shavings. As each is completed, return to freezing compartment. Leave at least 3 hours. Serve on doily on chilled plate. One quart ice cream serves 8.

It is easy to store ice cream successfully in the home refrigerator. Turn control to lowest possible temperature and chill trays well before filling. Place the ice cream in freezing trays at least 2 or 3 hours before serving. If the refrigerator is efficient it may be kept as long as 12 or even 24 hours. As soon as the ice cream is brought in, set dry, well-chilled tray on several thicknesses of newspaper and transfer ice cream quickly. Press down firmly with a wooden spoon, smooth surface with spatula and cover with waxed paper. Place in freezing compartment and keep refrigerator closed as much as possible. The ice cream can be decorated either before or after being stored in the freezing trays.

There are many advantages in purchasing bulk ice cream. It can be bought in quantity and used at your convenience; thus it costs less than when bought in small amounts. Bought at the slackest time in your day, it can be elaborated and stored in freezing trays ready for service later. It can be adapted to suit the family's special tastes and can be as simple or as elaborate as you desire. Bulk ice cream is high in quality, smooth in texture and fine-flavored. Because ice cream plants have mechanical equipment not included in the household refrigerator it is possible for them to make a product having a better balance of dietary essentials than home-manufactured ice cream.

February, the shortest month of all the year, is usually the gayest with parties. Especially do we become party-minded around Valentine's day. Here is a delicious fruit jelly recipe which your guests would enjoy. It requires no cooking and just enough "working" to satisfy the willing candy-maker's creative urge.

Raisin Jiffy-Fudge.
One and one-half cups seedless raisins, 3-4 cup chopped walnut kernels, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 pound powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons thick cream or evaporated milk, 1 egg white, 1 teaspoon grated or minced fresh orange rind, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 6 ounces dipping chocolate.

Rinse raisins in hot water, drain, dry on a towel and cool. Cream butter, add sugar and work well into the butter. Add cream, slightly beaten egg white, orange rind, vanilla, and work until smooth. Add raisins and nuts and mix well. Add chocolate which has been melted over warm water, and work with hands until creamy. Press into waxed paper-lined pan in desired thickness. May be cut after standing a few minutes, but improves on standing. Peel off paper and cut into squares.

Makes approximately 2 pounds.

The following recipes may assist you in planning for your party:

Raisin Fenchue.
Two cups old-fashioned brown sugar, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 1 cup sour cream, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 tablespoon top milk.

Place the brown sugar, granulated sugar, and sour cream in a saucepan over a low heat and stir constantly until the sugar is dissolved. Cook gently to (235 degrees F.) or until a little of the mixture forms a soft ball in cold water. Add the butter and vanilla, and the raisins. Beat by hand or electric beater until the mixture is nearly stiff; add the milk; continue beating until the mixture is of the same consistency as before the milk was added. Pour into a greased pan; and when cool, cut into squares.

Candy Date Roll.
One and one-half cups granulated sugar, 1-2 cup milk, Superfine powdered sugar, 1 cup dates, pitted, 1-2 cup nuts, chopped, 2 tablespoons butter.

Cook together granulated sugar, dates and milk until mixture forms a soft ball when dropped into cold water (235 degrees F.). Remove from fire, set pan in bowl of cold water and cool to lukewarm. Add chopped nuts and butter. Beat until thick and entirely cold. Turn onto board dusted thickly with superfine powdered sugar and knead until it will mold well. Roll into a long cylinder about 1 inch in diameter and let stand 24 hours. When wanted, cut into slices.

Nut Wafers.
One cup yellow sugar, 1-2 cup shortening, 2 eggs, 2 cups cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup chopped walnut meats.

Stir the shortening, sugar and eggs together until creamy and fluffy. Add vanilla and milk. Mix together the flour, baking powder, salt and nut meats; and stir into first mixture. Drop by teaspoonful onto oiled pans or cookie sheets. Allow an inch and a half between each cookie to allow for spreading. Top each cookie with a half a walnut meat; and bake at 375 degrees F. from 12 to 15 minutes. Yields four dozen cookies.

Coconut Apple Strips.
One recipe pie crust, 5 large apples, pared and thinly sliced, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups shredded coconut, 1-2 cup sugar, dash of salt, 1 egg, beaten thoroughly, 1-4 cup milk.

Line a large shallow pan or baking sheet, 13x9 inches, with pastry rolled 1-8 inch thick. Arrange apple slices in rows on dough; sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon and dot with butter. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Cover with coconut topping made by combining coconut, sugar, salt, egg and milk. Reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and bake 15 minutes longer, or until delicately browned. Cool, and cut into 2x4 1-2 inch strips. Makes 1 dozen strips.

Grapefruit Sherbet.
One pint orange juice, 4 cups granulated sugar, pulp of 3 grapefruits, 1 cup water, 1 pint grapefruit juice, 1-4 cup raspberry syrup.

Peel grapefruit and remove membrane from sections. Chop pulp very fine and cover with sugar. After it has stood two hours drain off syrup. Add to this, orange juice, grapefruit juice, fruit syrup and water, and then strain. Freeze until the mixture is just frosted. Serve in cocktail glasses and decorate with mint.

Cupid's Salad.

One package cherry gelatin mixture, 1 cup boiling water, 1-2 cup pineapple juice, 1-2 cup cherry juice, 1 cup red cherries, 1-3 cup diced pineapple, 1-4 cup minced celery, 1-8 teaspoon salt.

Dissolve gelatin in water. Cool and add rest of ingredients. Fill heart-shaped molds or pour into a shallow pan. When firm cut into heart shapes with a cutter. Arrange the salads in "cups" of crisp lettuce and top with the dressing.

Dressing.
Two-thirds cup stiff mayonnaise, 1-2 cup whipped cream, 1-2 cup shredded almonds, 1-3 cup diced marshmallows, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Chill ingredients. Combine and serve on top of salads.

Hearty Sandwiches.
Thirty-six slices white bread, 1-3 cup soft butter, 1-2 cup white cream cheese, 1-4 cup minced pimientos, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles or relish, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream.

Arrange the bread slices in pairs. Spread with rest of ingredients. Sandwiches should be pressed together with fork. Arrange sandwich fashion. Press firmly and then cut into heart shapes. (This filling may also be used on graham bread slices.)

Valentine Dessert.
Round cake, already baked, 1 quart strawberry sherbet, 1 quart vanilla ice cream, 1-2 cup coconut.

Remove center from cake. When it is time to serve the dessert quickly fill the cake with the sherbet and cover with the ice cream. Then sprinkle with the coconut. Decorate top with red or pink heart-shaped candies and serve in wedge shaped pieces.

Putnam Civic Club, County Officials Seek Awards Contest Co-operation

Eatonton Kiwanians Lead Campaign to Win First Place in Competition Sponsored by Constitution; Leaders Attend Planning Session.

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

EATONTON, Ga., Feb. 11.—Civic and farmer organizations of Putnam county, led by the Eatonton Kiwanis Club, will be asked to pool their resources in a co-operative movement with county commissioners to bring the $7,500 first award in The Atlanta Constitution's Progressive Government Awards to this county.

The decision was made today at a meeting of the Kiwanis group, which was attended by commissioners, county officials, civic leaders and newspaper publishers. About 25 county leaders attended the session.

Putnam thus joined the ever-increasing list of progressive Georgia communities evolving programs and entering enthusiastically into the awards competition.

Commissioners and citizens propose to form a steering committee with a view of formulating a "joint program in the best interests of the people of this county and for the purpose of winning the $7,500 first award."

The Constitution's Awards program study was the feature of the Kiwanis Club meeting today in the American Legion hut. C. S. Fincher Jr., superintendent of schools and vice president of the Kiwanis organization, presided because of the absence from the city of the club president, W. F. Leverette.

Frank A. Dennis, who served in the last session of the Georgia senate as senator from the 25th Georgia district and who is a member of Governor Rivers' staff, lauded The Constitution and Major Clark Howell, president and publisher of The Constitution. Dennis also is publisher of the Eatonton Messenger, edited by Tom A. Gregory.

"Putnam county would be ungrateful if it failed to take advantage of this fine awards opportunity," Senator Dennis said. "The Atlanta Constitution, under the leadership of the late and lamented Clark Howell, served the best interests of the people of this state. Major Howell, who is so acceptably and so enthusiastically continuing the policies of his late father is going to do the same thing in an even enlarged capacity if that is possible."

"Field Wide Open."

"These awards were established to recognize merit, progress and improvement—the very things we always have strived for in this county. We can win the first award if we will do it. The field is wide open. The program we adopt is ours. If we win, we adopt the best program in Georgia. We cannot lose whether we win an award or not because the improvements we make will be made for the benefit of citizens of this county."

"Every county in Georgia should actively participate in the awards. Failure to do so is an admission that we are not progressive. I am not saying this because I have any fear that Putnam will not be in the forefront when the awards are made. I am saying it for every county in the state. All should be in the awards competition and I am confident they all will be when they understand them thoroughly."

H. G. Leverette, member of the Putnam county commission, was present and endorsed Putnam's entry. He expressed the regrets of J. R. Griffin, chairman, who was ill and could not attend the organization meeting. R. E. Gooch, third commissioner, also could not attend the meeting, but expressed himself as being "intensely interested in Putnam making a fine showing and coping the first award."

"Putnam intends to be in the race when it is finished in a big way," Commissioner Leverette said. "We have the capacity and we have the determination which make winners. This county is in fine financial condition. We don't owe any money and we are planning to set a pace other counties

BISHOP E. D. MOUZON PAID LAST TRIBUTE

Methodist Leaders Attend Funeral of 68-Year-Old Churchman in Carolina.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 11.—(P)—Leaders of Southern Methodism attended the funeral service here today for Bishop Edwin D. Mouzon. The 68-year-old churchman, head of what was known as the richest and strongest district in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, died unexpectedly at his home yesterday.

Today the body lay in state in the $1,000,000 First Methodist church until 3:30 p. m., when services were held preparatory to the taking of the body to Dallas, Texas, for burial.

Services there will be at 2 p. m. Saturday and will be conducted by Bishop John M. Moore, of Dallas, and Bishop A. Frank Smith, of Houston. It was in the Texas conference that Bishop Mouzon began his ministry, after graduating in 1889 from Wolf College in his home town of Spartanburg, S. C.

After serving several pastorates he became professor of theology at Southern University, Georgetown, Texas, and was made bishop in 1910 of the district embracing the Virginia, the district embracing the Virginia, western Virginia and Baltimore conferences, including churches in Virginia and parts of West Virginia and Maryland.

CRUMP DENIES 'BREAK' OVER GAS TAX PROBE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 11.—(P)—E. H. Crump, Shelby county political leader, reiterated tonight that his organization has not broken with the state administration, and added that he has no objection to the appointment of Lewis S. Pope to make further investigation into the so-called "gas tax scandals" of last year, "if the Governor wants it."

Decatur Appreciates Your Patronage!

A Message From Mayor Scott Candler

February 11, 1937.

Mr. R. B. Cunningham, President,
Decatur Civitan Club, Decatur, Ga.

Dear Mr. Cunningham:—

The campaign of the Civitan Club to relieve traffic congestion around the business centers in Decatur has brought splendid results.

In Decatur our business men are now in position to go out and invite all of our neighbors in the surrounding territory to come to Decatur and trade.

Those of us who live in Decatur and are familiar with our town know that one will find in Decatur modern and up-to-date stores, surpassed by none in this territory.

I think that we should now go out as our business men are doing, and through the medium of newspapers invite all of our neighbors to come and trade in Decatur, assuring them that they will receive from our traffic officers courteous treatment, and that at all times their property left on the streets in Decatur while they shop with our merchants will be safe.

The City Commission appreciates the efforts of the Civitans to assist in the traffic situation in Decatur, and we believe and sincerely trust that our merchants will be greatly benefited by the strict enforcement of all our traffic regulations.

Thanking the Civitan Club in behalf of the City, I am,

Yours sincerely,

Scott Candler.

Chairman, Board of City Commissioners.

Women's Fashions 'Shown' Over Radio

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 11.—(P)—Feminine fashions, running the gamut from lingerie through bathing attire to afternoon and evening wear, were displayed via the radio waves today in another demonstration of television.

Technically, it was the first showing of images made up of 441 lines to provide pictures of approximately 30 per cent greater detail than was possible with the 345 lines of previous showings both here and in New York.

The program also contained the usual news reel, a feature movie, live talent, and an outdoor scene of such demonstrations.

Receivers, a half a dozen of them to accommodate a hundred or more guests, were located at the Germantown Cricket Club about three miles away from the transmitter at the Philco plant.

Georgia will have to strive to keep abreast of it if they are to be considered for the $3,500 first award.

"Our commission is dedicated to the service of the people of our community. We therefore welcome the awards. We want the advice and help of our people. Putnam county is to be reckoned with by the winner of the first award and you can tell the other counties of Georgia they may as well get ready for a good stiff fight."

LOCAL G. M. EMPLOYEES CHEER PEACE REPORT

1,200 Workers Have Been Idle Here; Early Return to Work Sought.

Shouts and cheers filled the air and smiles of happiness played on the faces of pickets on duty at the local Fisher Body and Chevrolet plant yesterday when they received word of the official signing of the General Motors-United Automobile Workers peace.

Twelve hundred workers, idle since the strike began 86 days ago, joined in the merry-making. The true picture means regular work and pay checks will be received in "approximately 10 days," they said.

The 450 pickets still on duty at the local plants will be withdrawn as soon as official word is received by strike representatives telling them the arguments have been settled.

On November 18, 1936, workers in the plants here began the first of a series of strikes which spread throughout the various plants of General Motors Company.

Workers here appeared delighted the strike was ended and expressed themselves as "ready to go back to work."

F. C. Pieper, national representative of the United Automobile Workers here, said, "The agreement indicates progress and clears up many of the points for which we went on strike. It indicates, too, that General Motors definitely plans to give us collective bargaining in the true sense of the word, something that did not exist prior to the strike."

After he is officially advised of the agreement in Detroit, Pieper said he would confer with General Motors representatives here and discuss the question of returning to work. He said it was impossible for the plants to reopen before 10 days.

Don S. Zimmerman, manager of the local Chevrolet plant, is in Detroit and other plant officials refused to comment on terms of the agreement or to venture any predictions.

BESIEGERS OF MADRID LASHED BY LOYALISTS IN FIERCE ONSLAUGHT

Spain Stabs at Fascists' Ring Encircling Capital; Planes Shower Bombs.

MADRID, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Madrid's Socialist defenders, pushing through a hail of shells and bullets, shook their Fascist besiegers loose from a foothold on the city's western edge today, the military defense council announced.

They drove the insurgents out of West Park and gained complete domination of the whole region south of the battle-scarred University City district, the Socialist statement said.

For weeks the insurgents had clung to positions hard by the city's western edge while they gradually swung their lines around Madrid and began closing in from the southeast.

The government attempt to break through that nearly closed ring came as Fascist guns sent a shower of shells into Madrid from various angles.

Socialist planes joined in the government onslaught, lashing Fascist lines with machine gun fire while the infantrymen buried hand grenades.

The attack spread into University City where, the government said, a small building was captured in front of the Clinica hospital, around which sporadic fighting had gone on for weeks.

Despite the loss of Malaga, government planes were said in official reports to have shot down five insurgent pursuit craft and one tri-motored plane in that sector.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierka. The first dose took away the gas. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never feel better."

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas, pain, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shook, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka quickly reduces heartburn and colic, headache. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation."

YOUNG women who suffer from monthly pains, headache or sideache, and women of middle age who suffer from heat flashes need a tonic like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I suffered from headache, nervousness, menstrual pains and much misery periodically. I had no ambition whatever, felt tired all the time. After taking 'Favorite Prescription' as a tonic, my appetite was improved. I felt stronger and my pains were relieved."

Florida Youth Fires On Train for Thrill

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 11.—(UP)—Glen Ely, 19, would-be "thrill wrecker," admitted tonight he fired into an Atlanta Coast Line train after attempting to derail it, police said.

Ely was arrested by W. D. Embury, A. C. L. special agent, who charged the youth last November 23, placed a railway tie on the rails, and when the engine's pilot brushed it aside, fired into the train with a .22-caliber rifle.

buried more than 1,200 dead along the Jarama riverfront after battles of the last few days for possession of the Madrid-Valencia highway.

Fascist machine-guns, planted along two and one-half miles of the Valencia road, raked a convoy of 14 Socialist supply trucks, wrecked seven and forced the others to flee back to Valencia, officers said.

FRENCH CABINET TO STUDY SPANISH CIVIL WAR

PARIS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The French cabinet will meet tomorrow, presumably to study the trend of the Spanish civil war and what was authoritatively described as the "disconcerting" turn of international "hands off" efforts.

Informed quarters said government opinion had been reflected in a warning by Premier Leon Blum's newspaper, Le Populaire that France might "resume liberty of action with regard to Spain" if Italy and Germany "do not cease their sabotage immediately."

France was concerned by reports that 12,000 Italian troops had been landed at Cadix before the successful Fascist assault on Malaga last week-end.

SMITH AGAIN HEADS BOARD OF REGENTS

nominations from its committee on education resulting in the re-election of all presidents of units except those at Forsyth and Albany. These places will be filled later. Both are negro schools. The officials re-elected included President Harmon W. Caldwell, of the University of Georgia, and Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech. The re-elections were urged by Chancellor S. V. Sanford.

The board will hold an adjourned meeting today to discuss the appropriation it intends to ask from the general assembly in the 1937-1938 appropriation bill to be taken up later at the present session.

In announcing what he termed his "abdication" of the board chairmanship, "First Choice" of Rivers.

"Governor Rivers has recently appointed Marion Smith as regent from the state at large. The means that is the first choice of the administration; and the appointment should be considered as altogether political for the reason that he was similarly appointed by former Governor Talmadge, who recognized Mr. Smith's eminent qualifications as a regent."

which qualifications were not lessened by a later difference of opinion—on other than regent matters—between him and the then governor.

"It is incumbent upon a regent to do everything possible to advance the interests of the university system. An ideal regent will sacrifice every personal or political ambition he may have in order that the system may be efficient. Similarly, the work of the regents should be as far removed from politics as possible; and yet our work will go forward more smoothly when the Governor and the chairman of the board are in perfect accord. I am well acquainted with Governor Rivers—admire his many excellent traits, particularly his views on education, and some of his best friends are my very good friends—but I am not now as close to him as I am Mr. Smith."

"In this particular case my 'abdication' is the most needless imaginable. Marion and I played side by side on the same football team more than 30 years ago—on or off this board—who is more competent for this position than he? In the system we played, the tackle was supposed to run the interference around the other end; but Marion could not run quite as fast as I could; so I did his running while he pounded my opponent. That co-operation has continued for more than 30 years and I propose that it shall never stop. If, accordingly, he were less worthy of the position of chairman of the board, I would nevertheless support him; but I know of no man in Georgia—on or off this board—who is more competent for this position than he. I shall give him every possible assistance and will continue to serve the board in any capacity he and you may desire. I therefore, ask you—my friends—for the foregoing reasons and others that might be mentioned—to join unanimously with me in requesting Mr. Smith—not to wait until June for us to elect him regularly but to begin immediately—to serve as chairman of this board, rearranging committee assignments and performing such other duties as devolve upon the chairman; and I so move."

Smith Statement.

Accepting re-election to the post from which he was removed by Talmadge, Chairman Smith said:

"I feel deeply and rather humbly grateful for Colonel Beaver's extreme generosity in insisting that I retake the position formerly held by me of chairman of the board of regents. Had he not absolutely insisted on this suggestion that I do so would not have arisen. The board has far too much appreciation of the splendid work Colonel Beaver has done during the time he had been chairman, and I have far too close a friendship with him, going back to our college days, for there to have been a suggestion of a change had he not refused to hold the chairmanship longer after my return to the board."

"I am deeply grateful to the board as a whole for its expression of confidence through my re-election."

"The state is just beginning to realize the extent of the constructive work for education in Georgia which the board of regents has done, since it was established in 1901. Very few know that we now have approximately 17,000 students being educated in the University System, and that the University System of Georgia is, in point of numbers which it is educating, one of the very largest universities in America under one management. Notwithstanding this tremendous growth the board has been able to operate the system on substantially less money from the state treasury than had theretofore been granted annually to the separate institutions. I do not say that we have been able to operate as we would like to have done, or as we should do, but I do say that our economies have been effected without deteriorating our service, and that, in many instances, in spite of these economies, the University System is furnishing more adequate and satisfactory service than was furnished by the various institutions operating separately. The board has during the system. Co-operation has been substituted for competition between its various units. Courses of study have

Marion Smith Resumes Post as Chairman of Board

Harmony reigned yesterday as the board of regents reorganized to carry on its work throughout the Rivers administration. Marion Smith, of Atlanta, removed from the board last year by Governor Talmadge, was restored to the chairmanship on motion of Colonel Sandy Beaver, of Gainesville, who resigned as chairman in order that the place might be opened for Mr. Smith. The new chairman, Governor Rivers and Colonel Beaver are shown, left to right, as the office reverted to the Atlanta.

been co-ordinated, and in many respects greatly improved. Particularly is this true in the revision of courses in the junior college division, where much greater emphasis is now laid on a broader outlook and on the student's intellectual needs as a human being and as a member of a human society.

Scandinavians Praised.

In his discussion of the social transformation taking place with varying degrees of success in Europe, both in the democracies and dictatorships, Dr. Buell praised the work being done in the Scandinavian countries.

"These states have the highest standard of living in Europe," he said, "and are probably the world's most successful democracies."

Dr. Buell pointed out that politics has become a science in these northern countries, and that the more intelligent young men go into public service. There are no great fluctuations or depressions due to the support by the government of private enterprise, and "the people can give thought to social change without becoming radical or arousing reaction."

"The old social order which existed in Europe for the benefit of a few people is giving way to a new order which is reducing class distinctions and increasing the general standard of living," Dr. Buell declared. "The new order will not be a Communist Utopia, for some form of capitalism will remain in most countries, but it will be a capitalism, tempered by state intervention, for a common good."

Reorganization of Farming.

The manner in which the evils of present cotton tenancy problem could be solved was outlined by Dr. Embree, the main idea being a complete reorganization of farming in the cotton states.

Dr. Embree's plan, the government would buy up huge quantities of land and distribute it in minimum portions to farmers under long lease contracts, and service agencies would be set up in various localities to supervise, guide, and aid the new homesteaders.

Along with the plan, experiments such as co-operative farm colonies, communities with highly developed services in schools and health with facilities for community incubators, stock breeding, and marketing facilities, and farm communities of the European type with houses and public services concentrated into villages

THE MOTOR STRIKE ENDED

Only gratification must be felt by Americans over the settlement of the General Motors strike.

The controversy has been a black shadow upon the economic life of the country. It is a profound relief to know that it is now dispelled.

It is a relief not merely because plants will now be back in operation and industrial war is ended. What might have been a thoroughly bad precedent has been nipped in the bud. The technique of the sit-down strike, with all its sinister implications, has been given a bad eye.

All who contributed to the shaping of the agreement in Detroit are entitled to the gratitude of the country. One thing this affair has taught the public—that if parties to a labor dispute can be brought together the likelihood of a negotiated peace is considerably enhanced.

That is a precious lesson, although to point it out does not exhaust the significance of this particular controversy.

The main consideration is that America is free of a major dispute between industry and labor and the progress toward economic stability and prosperity will be speeded up accordingly.

WHEN SEVERITY IS WISE

Bills intended to make capital offenses of robberies and burglaries involving the use or possession of deadly weapons are being sponsored by the Fulton county grand jury. It is proposed that conviction in such circumstances shall make it mandatory for the judge to impose the sentence of death or, in the event of the jury's recommendation of mercy, imprisonment for life.

This is obviously a step in the right direction. The armed robber or burglar is a potential murderer. He is all too often a veteran criminal. There is no reason why this kind of anti-social offender should be treated with leniency.

When penalties are too severe, they defeat their purpose. But that fact is not relevant in connection with the effort to protect person and property from villains who have made ready to kill in order to seize what does not belong to them.

THE CHANGING TIMES

Representatives of many nations will be present at the coronation of King George VI next May, but no rulers, whether they hold their stations by reason of "divine right" election or usurpation, will be present, for it is against custom for the crowned head of another nation to attend this imposing ritual. But even if it were proper, there would be very few monarchs eligible, for there are some six or eight former kings, emperors and what not sojourning in different cities of Europe at safe distances from their former domains.

Scattered throughout the eastern hemisphere, but principally in Europe, are some 15 nations which have changed from former monarchies to republics, or something decidedly akin to it, within the past 15 years. In the western hemisphere, certain of the Latin-American nations, while adhering to the semblance of republics, are actually operating under dictatorships; some of them are apparently "benevolent" and seemingly satisfactory to their citizens, while in others widespread discontent exists.

As to whether the people of these various countries are better off under present rule than under former presidents or monarchs, is a matter on which there is a divergence of opinion. The Turks have probably benefited, but evidence piles up that the Russians are greater slaves under the so-called rule of the proletariat than under the Czar, while the average German would probably exchange the despotism of the past four years for conditions that obtained under the Kaiser.

The present European governmental drift is between Communism and Fascism. It is probable, that at least until the masses become better educated, these forms of government will continue to make assaults upon our form of democracy.

Political unrest, with war after war, has been the record of Europe since its first written history. It was largely to escape that condition of affairs our forefathers came to this country and established a nation free from the troubles that constantly beset Europe.

Americans want nothing of Communism or Fascism with their dictators, and covert allusions of disgruntled politicians to the United States going communistic, or being headed for a dictatorship of any kind, is a species of innuendo that besmirches only those guilty of such utterances.

AN EMPTY GESTURE

It's a pity that the Georgia legislature should resort to such futile sectionalism as is represented in its resolution on the Sherman stamp.

It would have been better to have followed the philosophy of Representative Cullpepper, of Fayette, when he said: "I don't want to open sores that have long since healed—we are back in our father's house, feeding at our father's table, and feeding bountifully."

If ever since the War Between the States, the south has gotten its full share of recognition in the national picture, that time is at hand. In the light of the place and power held by southerners at Washington, it is unwise, to say the least of it, for us to attack the placing of Sherman's head upon a stamp, despite our condemnation of his tactics in Georgia during the War Between the States.

Postal authorities have announced that it is too late to do anything about the matter and suggest that objectors wait until the Lee and Jackson stamps are distributed in a short while. That being the situation, the legislature should not indulge in an empty and gratuitous gesture from which no good and only harm can come.

The evil that Sherman did belongs to history, or to a recapturing of the past so handsomely performed by Margaret Mitchell. But the fact remains that Sherman looms large in the good opinion of millions of Americans. At this late hour, when the nation is again truly one and indivisible, southerners can afford to be tolerant.

A HELPFUL TREND

Newsstands have broken out in a perfect rash of "digests," all doing their level best to cash in on the popularity of the original digest, now said to be the delight of at least 2,000,000 eager minds. If there is anything which is not being "digested," the fact is not discernible in the multitude of tabloids, made up of reprint material, running the gamut from events to books to detectives to love. Take your choice, ladies and gentlemen, a digest a day keeps the willies away.

How is this wholesale swallowing of boiled-down stuff to be explained? There is, of course, a definite appeal in the format of these digests. They are handy, and they offer articles which can be read by people in a hurry. That is why other magazines are going in for being pocket-sized.

There is the other reason that, taking them by and large, men and women are more deeply interested in nonfiction than they have ever been. The depression has done that for us. It has made us realize that this is not the best of all possible worlds, that some changes are in order; that, hither and yon, new systems and ideologies are claiming attention. Such a ferment is bound to affect even those not given to being mentally stirred.

In the early days of the "digest" movement, publishers of periodicals and books, subject to the process of culling, looked askance at what they thought would undermine their products. But that consequence has not come about. Magazines of the serious kind are certainly holding their own, although their readers remain, relatively speaking, a select class.

What will this "digest" craze do for us? The answer is, not much harm, on the one hand, and considerable good, on the other. For in its way it is part of a hopeful educational process. In a country like ours, that can be very significant. Years ago, H. A. L. Fisher, just honored by King George, said that democracy can survive only if the common mind grows more and more informed.

A Michigan proposal would make passengers with the drunk driver equally at fault. "Your Honor, I didn't know he was loaded," will be the revised plea.

The New Deal set up an authority over the Tennessee valley. But the old Ohio wears no man's collar.

Eleven hats are prescribed for the man about town. It makes it awkward for the well-dressed collegian, who must go without 11 hats.

World's Window

Notes From a Diary.

NEW YORK—In the course of the five days I spent in Boston, I searched the local newspapers in vain for some news of the Spanish civil war. Boston has discovered the existence of a vice ring in one of its most aristocratic suburbs, Brookline. High officials are said to be involved and their statements and counterstatements not only require headline, the size of skyscrapers, but they fill every nook and cranny of the back pages. What Mussolini, Stalin, Hitler are doing or saying this moment is of no importance.

This year I am spending my birthday in a train rolling between Boston and Chicago. Last year I set in the neighborhood of Gondar in Ethiopia, trembling lest the Italian bombers spot the airplane which was my only means of getting out of the road of two armies that were going to bump. The year before that I was with Yusef ibn Ibrahim plunging along in the heat of the French offensive expedition across the Sahara desert.

Yusef, my chauffeur, cook and factotum on that memorable journey of nearly five months' duration, wrote me a letter not long ago. "Dear Patron (dear boss): please advise the President of the United States that I want to be his bodyguard and state my qualifications."

It is said by the Stalinist press in this country, the Soviet is already a paradise, how is it that whole groups of old-time Bolsheviks, according to the testimony of the same press, are so dissatisfied with the actual conditions that they secretly organize opposition and seek to wreck the latter-day garden of Eden?

Friends took me to a spacious after-theater restaurant in Boston's main streets, where the atmosphere was said to be wholly French. This consisted in a stucco architectural decoration of the walls. You were supposed to be in the dining room of a French village. When you closed your eyes a little more than half the illusion might have worked, but when you opened them you saw at once that everything was too clean and new to resemble anything in the rural regions of France. The gals may have been real Parisiennes, though.

The sight of thousands upon thousands of motor cars in the streets of America's cities gives you an impression of immense wealth. Gradually you become used to the sight and you begin to wonder whether the French are the Dutch, for instance, would go in for motor cars to the same extent as people over here, even if they had the cash available. And next you realize that the average Frenchman has more money than the average American, but that he won't buy an automobile, precisely to keep his neighbors and his collector in the dark as to his exact financial status.

An announcement on the walls of Boston speaks of the launching of a nationwide campaign for the repeal of the prohibition act. It is not a new idea. As I sit here, talking about prohibition we don't talk about more serious and important problems. Is that the idea?

As I was sitting in the office of the managing editor of a Boston newspaper a reporter dashed in to tell his boss of a huge fire raging on the waterfront. I had the joy of dashing out later of writing the lead of the story, which I liked so well that I almost wished there was another fire tonight when I must lecture before a woman's club.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Having regard for detergent or cleansing value, the antiseptic action, economy and freedom from harmful effect on the teeth or mouth, plain soap or common table salt seems to be the dentifrice most good dentists suggest for indiscriminate use. In any case, your dentist knows best what your teeth need, and you should follow his instructions about the care of your teeth, and use whatever he prescribes for other remedy.

Various investigators have tested toothbrushes from the sanitary viewpoint and the consensus of their findings is that once the brush has been used it harbors many bacteria for the rest of its life in service. On this score some dentists object to the ordinary practice of rinsing the brush and setting it away until next time. They insist on painstaking cleaning of the brush after each brushing of the teeth, by one means or another.

For many years I have had a pair of "old" brushes and a new one which will stand by, and these brushes are as good as new today. Why can't toothbrushes be made in similar fashion, so that they are as good as new, and can be sterilized as often as desired by the only dependable method—boiling or steam under pressure?

An ingenious contrivance for brushing the teeth consists of a detachable brush made of vegetable fiber which is discarded after each brushing, the handle being readily sterilized. Another, especially suitable for mothers or nurses in cleaning the teeth of infants or young children and efficient also for adults, is a tooth napkin, a small square of cloth impregnated with a polishing and cleansing agent used by dentists in polishing teeth, the napkin being wrapped over a finger and so used to rub teeth and gums, then discarded. Young children quickly learn to clean their teeth with these napkins. From the sanitary viewpoint both contrivances are ideal. The tooth napkins, devised by Dr. J. P. Carmichael, do keep a fine luster on the teeth.

When green stains come on the teeth and ordinary cleaning will not remove them, a drop or two of tincture of iodine on the wet brush will usually prove efficacious. Follow this with a brushing with a drop or two of aromatic spirit of ammonia on the wet brush, to remove any remaining dark stain and increase the bleaching effect. Finally rinse with a teaspoonful of peroxide in an ounce or two of water. The iodine can be used for three or four days in succession, and for a child of six years can be repeated as often as twice a week. An adult may use the iodine every day for a few weeks if necessary.

Finishing a meal with some fresh fruit instead of pastry, cake, pudding, ice cream, is a natural way to keep the teeth free from excessive deposits of food detritus.

The gentle use of soft wood tooth-picks to remove particles caught between the teeth is harmless. So is the regular use of silk floss for cleaning between the teeth.

I repeat, your dentist always knows what is best for your teeth, or for the plates or other dentures, and the suggestions here given are suitable only for persons who cannot or will not obtain dental advice.

Monkeys.
Have received notice my blood contains 0.45 sugar. Should I have blood sugar test? Also my wife's blood pressure has been found. What may be done to increase blood pressure?—(L. S. P.)

Answer—Leave both questions entirely to your physician's judgment. This is best for your own peace of mind and health.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS FAIR ENOUGH

BY PAUL MALLON.

TRADING? WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—There are all kinds of ways of making congressmen see the broader aspects of President Roosevelt's court repacking problem.

It is quite possible, for example, that some of those senators who have been called down privately to Attorney General Cummings' office since Tuesday have come away with new light on the subject. At least, they have reported to their colleagues that they now see that far more than the question of controlling the supreme court may be involved as far as they personally are concerned.

Of course, Mr. Cummings would never lobby among senators for the program of his boss, but he cannot escape the fact that there are about eight federal judicial vacancies and, try as he may, he cannot avoid consulting senators from those districts about recommending appointees. He need not point out that a senator's candidate will have a much better chance of getting the appointment if the senator will support the President's reorganization program. Anyone with intelligence enough to be a senator knows that.

More than one has been deeply impressed.

SUGGESTION Congressmen calling at the White House lately

also report that they have been more affected by what they saw than what they heard.

More than one has noticed a large book on the executive desk containing details of the plan for government reorganization. The book is said to contain a list of jobs which will have to be filled or refilled if and when the reorganization goes through.

No argument could be more eloquent with a congressman than this one without words.

NECESSITIES The President really had to take hold of the situation because his whole system of executive lobbying with congress has buckled under the strain of the court proposal.

Knee-weakness has spread like a plague among the usual congressional lobbyists of the White House. Many a congressional leader upon whom the President usually depended has developed a heart too heavy for this particular business. They are going through the motions of cracking the presidential whip, but they made little secret of their listlessness at the outset.

The heavy work fell first upon the two official presidential lobbyists, Charles West and Jimmy Roosevelt, but it was too heavy, Mr. West has been getting along only reasonably well, and Jimmy not at all. As this is young Roosevelt's initial introduction into lobbying, he has been going along to the capitol with West more or less as a sight-seer. But even as an accompanist, his presence seems to have failed to bring desired results upon legislation.

This is why congressmen lately have received invitations to the White House singly, and in droves.

DESUGARING The difficult situation which Mr. Roosevelt is up against with congress could be seen behind the action of the house in pushing that Sumners bill, giving retirement privileges to supreme court justices.

House Judiciary Chairman Sumners led the impression with inquiries, after a White House call, that the President was not against pushing that bill ahead of the rest of his program. The statement did not accurately describe the real underlying situation, which was simply this: Every one of Mr. R.'s leaders in the house was glad to skim this sugar from his court pill. Their action made it far more difficult for Mr. Roosevelt to get the only important part of his program through—the remaining part authorizing him to change the complexion of the supreme court.

DOUBT A spokesman competent to speak for the Norris-La Follette crowd says they do not believe Mr. R. can get six good liberal lawyers for the supreme bench out of the whole country. That, they say off-the-record, is the real explanation for the fight they are making.

If you question their deduction, they will name names. The President would not try to appoint Professor Frankfurter, of Harvard, they say, because "that would be too raw." They mean Frankfurter might not be confirmed by the senate, although their judgment on that is subject to question. Senator Wagner would be satisfactory, but he would not be eligible if he votes on the judicial expansion program. Neither would Senator Robinson, who would not be acceptable to them even if he were eligible. They do not want Attorney General Cummings, SEC Chairman Landis is too young—and that ends their list.

JUMPING Outsiders may have considered it strange that such an excellent reader of handwriting on the wall as Senator Sheppard, of Texas, neglected to jump out against the court proposal after his Texas legislature opposed it. His colleague, Senator Connally, did.

The answer is Sheppard had committed himself before the legislature acted.

A Lot Of Bunk.

New comment this morning on the proposal made somewhere in the mid-west by a stenographers' union to protect the poor little office girls from the menace of overly amorous employers.

Writes an Atlanta girl, agreeing with the scorn for such an organization she expressed here a couple of days ago.

"In the vernacular of slang, I say an organization for the suppression of human beings is a lot of bunk. There are so many useful and absolutely necessary things to be done for human beings, without wasting time on silly things like that sort of union."

S.—Mother and I enjoyed the cooking school yesterday and will go tomorrow and Friday.

That Story Of Dogwood.

Once upon a time this column published the legend of the dogwood based, you may recall, on the theory it was from a dogwood tree the cross on which Jesus died was made and that the blossoms contain the little red crosses in memorial. And that the tree, on its own request, never grew large enough, again, to furnish timber for such a use.

A friend in Clarksville, Ga., has written asking for that legend again. And I can't find it. Have searched through two months of files of The Constitution and have time for no more seeking.

Can anyone furnish the legend, so it may be sent to the Clarksville enquirer?

What To Do In New York.

Young southern girl who has never before been north of Charlotte, N. C., plans her first visit to New York for Christmas. She is devoting every thought to planning a program that will give her the most enjoyment within the limits of a one-week stay.

She has been advised to take a boat trip down the river so as to see the skyline from the water.

To be sure and see Grant's tomb.

To take at least one ride in the subway and to eat at least one meal in an Automat.

To see a good game of hockey on the ice, if a game is scheduled during her stay.

To wander through Columbus circle and down to Times Square at night.

To ride on top of a Fifth Avenue bus.

Has anyone other suggestions to make?

Home Knit Sweater.

A couple of months, or more, before Christmas the young feminine members of my family started knitting. They knitted sweaters for themselves and for others. And two, at least, promised a sweater for dad as a Christmas present.

Christmas came and there was nary a sweater in the old man's stocking.

Charming young couple, not married so long, visiting at the house one evening, heard lamentations from dad on his sweaterless condition. Young bride volunteered to knit it herself, if daughter would turn over the yarn already purchased.

Agreement gladly closed. Young bride promised sweater ready in time for first cold spell.

And she did. Wednesday night.

Please, oh please! Where is that sweater?

Community Singing.

Wandered into a local theater the other day just in time to hear a short subject on Community Singing.

Vocalists on the screen led the living audience in singing well-known old songs, with words flashed upon the screen.

The song, which was sung by the large proportion of the houseful of people who joined in lustily in the happy choruses.

No many of them seemed to be having a good time!

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Monday, February 12, 1912:

"At the close of the mecca this week of all merchants, the occasion being the first southern merchants' convention for the mercantile betterment of the south, which will open at the Piedmont Tuesday morning."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Saturday, February 12, 1887:

"The Workers of the Church of Christ gave one of their pleasant evening receptions last night, at the residence of Mr. W. S. Bell, No. 69, DuPont street."

The evening was passed in the pleasant manner, and everybody went home praising the willing workers for their indefatigable efforts in the good cause in which they are engaged."

Talmudic Tales

BY DAVID MORANTZ.

No. 565.

(Based upon the legends and philosophy found in the Talmud, which was compiled by the Jewish people, dating back as far as 5,000 years.)

"BREAD UPON THE WATERS."

One day, while walking along the banks of the Tiber, a fisherman named Kappara saw a man, a survivor of a shipwreck, lying on the sand, nearly dead from hunger and exposure.

He carried him to his home, where he gave him food and clothing and nursed him back to health.

When the stranger felt strong enough to return to his land, Bar Kappara furnished him a generous stipend of food and money for his needs along the way and, as he left, he gratefully promised that some day he would repay him.

Bar Kappara's neighbors derided him for having taken in this stranger and put himself out so much for him but he disregarded their taunts.

Some years later, Palestine was invaded by a hostile king of a nearby country and many inhabitants were carried away to be sold into slavery.

Bar Kappara was appointed to call upon this king and offer him a large sum of money as a ransom to release those captives.

Due to the extensive interest in Talmudic Tales, 128 of the legends and over 500 Pearls of Wisdom have been collected in an attractive book of 196 pages, handsomely bound in grained blue velvet cloth, with gold-stamped title and autographed by the author. The Treasure in the Vault Is Yours If You Can Pick the Rusty Lock

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Civic Uplift.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—They seem to be spoiling for another of those great civic uplift fights in Chicago, and from where I sit I can look out over the scene of the last one, which drew only a little less than $3,000,000.

After the Tunney-Dempsey uplift ceremonies at Soldier field, Chicago had a World Fair two years running and this served to establish the skin show as a legitimate art for the American masses. Some people said the World Fair made Miss Sally Rand, but it would be more like to say that she made the World Fair, because, with the aid of a wise court decision, she drew vast crowds of art lovers to the exposition and established the legitimacy of the only proper attraction in the entire effort.

A learned judge, before who Miss Rand appeared on a charge of immoral behavior, remarked that some people would wish to put her on a horse, adding, however, that he meant nothing personal as to the fair defendant, and this judgment established the legitimacy of the skin show. There were many ladies in little booths and cubicles along the midway. In no time at all there were so many skin shows at the World Fair that a police officer's center was reminded of nothing so much as a visit to the autopsy room at a prosperous morgue.

Most of the ladies were utterly immobile and impersonal toward the art lovers who came to peer at them through peep-holes or slots for 15 cents per glance or study the feminine form in comparative comfort and gaze for 15 minutes, and not through any peep-hole, either, at a peep which, in the long run, has proved more profitable than any garment of child-like or Russian sable ever manufactured.

Sally's Skin Is Dollar Show.

Some of the art back so often that they got landladies' eyes, which is a narrow squint, but they were not to be deterred by the peep-holes. Miss Rand's skin, however, was not a 15-cent attraction. Here cost a dollar, but she gave good measure and a patron of art could gaze for 15 minutes, and not through any peep-hole, either, at a peep which, in the long run, has proved more profitable than any garment of child-like or Russian sable ever manufactured.

About $70,000 would be the top price for the most expensive work of art that Miss Rand could find in all the world and that would be mere alley rabbit compared to the value of the hide that she was born in.

I guess it isn't quite correct to say that the skin shows were the only prosperous attraction of the fair. Mr. Charlie Pyle, author of the transcontinental union debates, also struck the nerve of the money of the people with a freak show, starring an artist known as the mule-faced lady. This was no fake because the lady did look exactly like a mule and she could play a lower lip in a way to make a boy from Moberly or Mexico, Mo., break down and cry of homesickness.

Mr. Pyle used to complain of Good-Times while competing in the skin-show business, but he was not and it may even be that Tunney and Dempsey deserve credit for a remote assist on the pile, but this is a matter for the distinct change in Chicago since those days. There is not any where near as much shooting as there used to be and life seems quieter and more sane. In those days a fellow would walk up to a friend, hand a shotgun out from his pants with a bore the size of a stove pipe and, with the deafening bang of a shot, the cylinder heads, chunks of a sawweight and horseshoes.

"Wipe Out" Then somebody would creep up to that one's house at night and knock out the dynamite.

A transom a package of dynamite known in those days as a mash note, and splatter his whole family all over the place. Then that one would be tied in a sack with a rope running from the front porch of some judge or United States senator for a souvenir. They called this the Sicilian bag trick and it was pretty cute.

Gas Range Wins Favor of Cooking Expert

Latest developments in scientific construction of gas ranges are being discussed by Miss Ruth Chambers, noted cooking expert conducting "Foods of the Nation," and J. W. Lea, of the Atlanta Gas Light Company. Miss Chambers declares she prefers to cook on a gas range like the new model Roper shown above, which is distributed by the Atlanta Gas Light Company.

NEW COURT PROPOSAL
SUBMITTED BY NORRIS

intimations from the White House earlier today that Mr. Roosevelt wanted the program approved without change.

"It seems to me," he said, "that giving the President power to increase the supreme court is a dangerous precedent. Another Congress might come along and increase the court again, until it is as big as the house of representatives. Then we'd have to build another marble palace."

Refusing to say definitely that he would vote against Mr. Roosevelt's bill, Norris suggested an alternative legislative remedy.

Limit Court Powers.

"I think Congress has power to limit the appellate powers of the United States supreme court if it wants to," he said. "Congress could provide the court could never hold a legislative act unconstitutional except by a certain margin."

In his own state, he pointed out, the seven supreme court justices may invalidate state laws only by a five-to-two margin. He described the President's plan as "not fundamental."

Norris' opposition gave encouragement to an influential bloc in the senate that is organizing to fight the plan. Administration leaders, however, insist they have enough strength to enact it.

Norris, a member of the senate judiciary committee, was one of a group of five invited to the White House. The others, Democrats all, were Senators Robert F. Wagner, New York; William H. Dieterich, Illinois; Key Pittman, Nevada, and William Gibbs McAdoo, California.

Another judiciary committee member, Senator Charles O. Andrews, Democrat, Florida, introduced a compromise bill in the senate today to permit retirement of supreme court justices at 72 instead of at 70 as provided in a bill passed by the house yesterday.

30 Vote for Plan.

Later, Norris told reporters that he would vote for the President's plan if he could not improve it. He admitted that constitutional amendment is a slow process but thought it was entirely logical to work for his own ideas and at the same time to go ahead with the President's plan.

"I would prefer some other plan but I am not irrevocably opposed to the President's plan," he said. "Present conditions are intolerable with the courts instead of Congress legislating."

"I believe the legislation which has been advanced by the administration is necessary for the salvation of the country and if I can not pass the courts then I favor doing any constitutional thing that is necessary to get it past. The President's proposals are constitutional."

He added, however, that they left the way open for a similar impasse in the future, requiring another increase in the court.

"There he belittled criticism of the President as a would-be dictator."

"I have never known a president," he said, "who was less inclined to be a dictator. I've never once known him to make any attempt to control my actions or any one else's."

"I would prefer to have a seven-to-two majority in the court required to invalidate an act of Congress. That would be a more permanent remedy."

Cancelled Meeting.

Meanwhile, Chairman Hutton W. Summers, Democrat, Texas, of the house judiciary committee, cancelled

Democrat, Ohio, appealed for support of the President; Representative Noah M. Mason, Republican, Illinois, a new member, attacked it in a speech entitled:

"America at the Crossroads, or Congress on the Spot."

Representative John J. O'Connor, Democrat, New York, sarcastically criticized state legislatures for sending resolutions to Congress regarding the proposals.

"They don't even wait until we deliberate to consider whether there might be modifications or not," he said.

Harlan said:

"Can't Survive."

"Industry cannot survive and beat the chisel without help. As long as the mental slant of the supreme court is as today there is no hope in solving our problem. The President's program is the only way out. If the people do not like it, we can change it the next Congress."

To which Mason replied:

which will require food or refreshments.

Intriguing Recipes.

And those intriguing recipes which cause exclamations of delight from dinner and luncheon guests always can be duplicated at the family table to the delight of the entire household.

As a dramatic climax to each session, Miss Chambers presents a beautifully staged display, through the "Looking Glass," by which all the dishes prepared on that program are shown to the audience, before mirrors, so that every detail is clearly visible to the entire audience.

Increasing in popularity also is the beautiful style parade presented each morning preceding the cooking classes, with stunning costumes presented by eight talented models. Completing the charming appearance of the models are the artistically and individually arranged coiffures created by artists of Alverson's Beauty Salon, well-known here for their ability to bring out the individuality of each client in modern hair dressing.

Co-operating Merchants.

Merchants and business firms operating in Atlanta have been so generous and helpful in helping to make "Foods of the Nation" such a great success that they deserve to be mentioned by name, so here they are:

Alverson's Beauty Salon, American Sugar Refining Company, Ansley hotel, Aristocrat Dairy Products Company, Atlanta Gas Light Company, Atlanta Ice Dealers, Baxter Maddox Insurance Agency, Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., Clorox Chemical Company, Doughnut Corporation of America, Duffee-Freeman Furniture Company, Durkee Famous Foods, Inc., Eagle Coffee Company, Inc., General Foods Sales Company, H. J. Heinz Company, Highland Bakery, Inc., L. N. Huff Optical Company, Jacques Manufacturing Company, John F. Jelke Company, Joseph E. Seagram & Sons Company, Kay Jewelry Company, Kellogg Company, Kline's Department Store, Lane Drug Stores, Inc., Lea & Perrin, Inc., Lewis Brothers Company, the Linsen Bazaar, Loose-Wiles Biscuit Company.

McCormick & Co., National "Meat Company, National Oats Company, Noland Company, Inc., Pecos Valley, Inc., Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, the New Primrose Cleaners and Launderers, Quaker Oats Company, Sears' Farmers Market, Sears-Robuck, Seminole Paper Company, Stanco, Inc., Trio Mattress Renovating Company, Washington State Apple, Inc., Weinstein's Flower Shop and Welch's Grapefruit Company.

Big Prize Day.

Today's final session of "Foods of the Nation" will be the big prize day, capping the generous awards of the first three sessions in value as well as number of prizes.

Two of the leading prizes—a modern gas range, given by the Atlanta Gas Light Company, and a large air-conditioned refrigerator, presented by the Atlanta Ice Dealers—will be given away to holders of lucky numbers on their programs.

More special prizes than ever before will be added to the 25 generous baskets of food supplies to increase the fun and entertainment at today's closing session.

And in addition to this coupons of various value for laundry and dry-cleaning service at the New Primrose Cleaners and Launderers will be given to the first 400 persons passing through the door at the Paramount theater tomorrow morning.

That, we think, is a real prize list of valuable awards.

But remember—the box containing the numbered tickets for the prize drawing will be taken back stage promptly at 9:30 o'clock, so be sure to have your stub in the box before that time.

Prize Winners.

Again we have a big list of prize winners who carried off the awards yesterday morning. Here they are:

He added that he picked the age of 72 chiefly with the idea that it might attract votes of senators who think 70 is too young.

It happens, however, that two justices who would be affected by the President's and Sumner's retirement proposals—Justices Owen J. Roberts and Pierce Butler—were not affected at present by Andrews' bill. Roberts will be 72 until May 2; Butler will be 71 March 17.

Finished Debate.

The house, which debated the whole field of judicial reorganization in passing the retirement bill, still had some talk left over today although officially it had passed on to other matters.

Representative Byron B. Harlan, Democrat, Ohio, appealed for support of the President; Representative Noah M. Mason, Republican, Illinois, a new member, attacked it in a speech entitled:

"America at the Crossroads, or Congress on the Spot."

Representative John J. O'Connor, Democrat, New York, sarcastically criticized state legislatures for sending resolutions to Congress regarding the proposals.

"They don't even wait until we deliberate to consider whether there might be modifications or not," he said.

Harlan said:

"Can't Survive."

"Industry cannot survive and beat the chisel without help. As long as the mental slant of the supreme court is as today there is no hope in solving our problem. The President's program is the only way out. If the people do not like it, we can change it the next Congress."

To which Mason replied:

Farm Tenancy Solution Outlined
At Emory Institute by Dr. Embree

U. S. Purchase of Land, Safeguarding Against Speculation, Rehabilitation, Removal of Sub-Marginal Land From Cultivation Urged by Authority.

By RALPH MCGILL.

Every year in the United States 40,000 farmers drop from the farm operator class and become tenant farmers.

Farm tenancy has become perhaps the most important single economic problem in the nation. It involves not only economic but sociological factors which are equally important. Involved also are health and education.

Yesterday the audience at the Emory University Institute of Citizenship, heard Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald Foundation and a member of the President's commission on farm tenancy, give his ideas of "The Way Out."

Basic Recommendations.

There were four chief items:

1. Purchase of lands by the federal government and resale to tenant farmers.
2. Safeguarding against land speculation by long-term contracts which retard the obtaining of the land to its simple use for a period of from 20 to 30 years.
3. Rehabilitation through loans and rehabilitation agents.
4. Removal of farmers from sub-marginal lands where it is impossible to make a living and the turning of these lands into federal conservation projects.

"Taking the theoretical condition first," said Dr. Embree, "there is no over-production in farm products except perhaps in cotton. Certainly there is a stark lack of food crops to provide a sufficient, balanced diet for all the people. There is a lack of eggs, of poultry, of meats and of vegetables on the tables of all the people. And strange enough, this lack of balanced food is found mostly in the rural sections and not the urban."

No Milk Overproduction.

"Certainly all the babies and all the people in need of nourishment do not have enough milk to drink. There is no overproduction in milk and other dairy products."

"It is true if these were all developed there would be a competition with the dairy products of Iowa and Wisconsin. But there would be a competition, if vineyards were developed, with those of the California wine makers, and there would be other competitions, the simply would have to be worked out by other means."

"That much for the theoretical side of it. It cannot actually be said that the too many vegetables, too much milk and butter and eggs and poultry and meat for the people's tables," he said.

"We each have some 40,000 new tenant farmers are added to the list of those who have dropped to that condition. We come to practical proportions as to 'The Way Out.'"

"With regard to the first of the four proposals, I believe the government should buy land. I think it is the middle of the century, the government because it cannot as well be done by individual states. If so, the measure was provision for a jury trial of any lawyer disbarred or suspended if he desired to appeal for it. The first bill would have made the decision of a 33-member board of governors final.

Author of the substitute bill, Williams of Bacon county, voted against it, telling the house he was leader of the "opposition to incorporation of the bar."

He said the substitute was offered "to remove the most objectionable features" of the original bill "but it's had any way you look at it and no substitute could be good."

Roll Call Vote.

Some confusion surrounded the taking of the final vote. Done by roll call, some members kept a tally of their own and expressed fear absentees would return in time to cast ballots.

During the verification of the roll call and the counting by clerks, Sabados of Dougherty, asked the chair to "keep the member in the hall and keep them from running around the corridors to get three more votes."

The fight was the longest and closest conducted in the house this session.

The house attended only to routine business before resuming the bar bill debate where it was left off Wednesday.

An unfavorable committee report was received from the industrial relations committee on the "minimum crew law" for railroads. A minority report by McNall of Chatham, author of the measure, will bring it before the house.

Cochran of Thomas and others proposed a special appropriation of $207,025.53 for the Department of Agriculture to exercise options on buildings and lands used for farm markets at Atlanta, Macon, Thomasville, Valdosta, Douglas, Greenville, Carterville and Gainesville.

The house and senate will meet in joint session today to observe Georgia Day and pledge allegiance to the state flag. Rivers suggested the program.

Disposition of the bar bill left the house at the point of considering a bill to investigate all state departments during former Governor Talmadge's terms. It will be the first order of business today.

Senate Amendments.

Amendments to the state patrol measure kept the senate in a prolonged session today without a final vote being reached.

The changes inserted in the measure by the senate will have to go back to the house for concurrence, with opposition to one of the alterations already promised by Representative Larsen, of Laurens county.

The bill would create a public safety department for directing an 80 to 120-man highway patrol and administering a driver's license law.

One of the principal amendments called for a change in the personnel of the safety department as proposed by the house.

While the house approved a board composed of the Governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, comptroller general and superintendent of schools, the senate struck the state treasurer, secretary of state and school superintendent, substituting the revenue commission chairman and head of the State Highway Board.

The change which Larsen told the house he would oppose was one requiring eligible persons for the patrol to have a high school education or "the equivalent."

Larsen Led Fight in House which resulted in striking the provision from the original bill, saying

"This land would be sold to those desiring the change to individual needs."

"Secondly, this land would be sold so as to safeguard it against land speculation. This would mean a long contract. Under the original Bankhead bill the term was set at 60 years. That is too long. Probably some term between 20 and 40 years would be more nearly correct. By thus retarding the fee simple for a period of years, the purchaser would not be tempted to sell in some land boom for a small profit. It would assure a permanent occupancy of the land."

"I believe that in some sections where there were large sections involved with some 300 families on them, co-operatives might be formed and a manager appointed. It would be very similar to the stock company with sales and purchases done by the group," he said.

Rehabilitation Essential.

The rehabilitation feature was declared an essential one. It reaches through the rehabilitation agents, the lower 40 per cent of the farmers which the county demonstration agent is unable to reach.

The fourth feature was the provision for purchase of sub-marginal lands.

"We know," said Dr. Embree, "that many farmers are trying to make a living on lands which are impossible of farming with profit. These men would be sold land which can be farmed. The sub-marginal lands would be given over to various conservation projects."

A fifth feature provided for relief in case of floods, droughts, tornadoes and disasters of that type.

This address followed others in which other features of the farm tenancy problem had been discussed. The history of tenancy in this and other counties, the distressing economic and sociological condition of the tenant farmers, their increase, the success of the emergency resettlement and rehabilitation projects already in effect—all this had been covered by other speakers at the institute.

Dr. Embree closed with his suggestions as to "The Way Out."

A large audience heard his afternoon address, which was the first in a series of round-table talks and discussions.

Georgia is in the district of emergency resettlement and rehabilitation projects with Alabama and two other states. In that section are some 50,000 families or about 250,000 people so engaged. Only a small percentage of failures have been noted. Both projects have been unusually successful.

Dr. Embree said the proposals would make these two features more or less permanent.

Defeat of Bar Bill Hailed; Appreciation, Gratification Expressed.

A letter expressing "appreciation and gratification" to the Georgia general assembly for their action in defeating the proposed "Georgia bar bill" was made public last night by G. Seals Aiken, as president of the Georgia Lawyers' Association.

The letter stated, in part: "An independent bar is absolutely essential to the preservation of the liberties of the people and the protection of their constitutional rights. We believe the highest standards of the profession can best be obtained through regulation of the profession by the state for the benefit of the people as a whole."

BUDGET IS BALANCED REGENTS TELL RIVERS

Debts in Excess of Million Dollars Paid; Needs Are Cited.

Regents of the University System of Georgia advised Governor Rivers in their annual report yesterday that since the reorganization in 1932, budgets have been balanced and debts in excess of a million dollars paid in full.

The report, signed by Sandy Beaver, chairman, said in part: "During the three years prior to the reorganization act, the state turned over to the trustees an average of approximately $1,840,000 annually."

"Last year, notwithstanding the fact that we taught 26 per cent more pupils than were taught at any time under the old system, the regents received from the state only $1,275,000, an accomplishment which is probably without parallel in the nation."

Chancellor Reports. Chancellor S. V. Sanford, who made his report along with that of the regents, in a review of the reorganization plan, said:

"It is undeniable that through this consolidation of units and of specifying the definite objective of each unit there have resulted economy, efficiency and high scholastic achievements."

He recommended that the general assembly be asked to make the following appropriations for the system: Maintenance, $1,750,000; building program, $500,000; a graduate school, $75,000; new equipment, apparatus, machinery, $75,000; the medical school, $50,000; repairs, $50,000.

In urging additional funds for the medical school, located at Augusta, the chancellor said its needs are many. He listed them as:

Money for salaries; money for modern equipment; money for additional instructors; money for new departments; and money to provide for caring for patients in need over the state—or a state hospital in Augusta.

The new departments needed, he said, are neurosurgery, psychiatry, tuberculosis, anesthesia, dentistry.

Stressing the complexities of modern civilization, Chancellor Sanford said the state's schools "must keep pace with progress and reflect the changes and developments in the social order."

The urge to make progress, he said, reflects itself in world-wide restlessness.

"This same restlessness—this urge to make progress—exists among many thoughtful educators and citizens. All over the country we sense this sense of turmoil, investigation and experimentation in our higher institutions."

"An inventory is being taken in order to ascertain whether our institutions are on the right track, or if they are producing a sufficient number of citizens capable of rendering public service."

"The radicals in answering such questions will advocate changing everything; the ultra-conservative will advocate letting things stand as they are. Progress comes by evolution; not by revolution."

EVACUATION IS BEGUN

Murphy arranged at "the wish of the President."

Signatures Affixed. And after three leaders of the opposing sides affixed their signatures to the settlement today, President Roosevelt telegraphed to Murphy "the thanks of the nation" for a high public service nobly performed.

Less than 500 words were required to state the peace terms that halted a nation-wide industrial strike in automobile plants, and made possible the resumption of operations in General Motors units which William S. Knudsen, executive vice president, predicted would reach a speed of 225,000 cars and trucks in March.

The corporation agreed: To recognize the U. A. W. A. as a collective bargaining agency for its members.

To reopen as soon as possible all its plants on strike or otherwise idle.

To exercise no discrimination or prejudice against any employee because of his activity in the union or the strike.

To consent to dismissal of injunction proceedings against union officers and members, and to discontinue contempt actions instituted under those injunctions.

Pledges of Union. The union pledged: To "forthwith terminate" the strike and evacuate all striker-held plants.

To exhaust possibility of negotiation of grievances before calling any strike, during the collective bargaining agreement contemplated in further conferences, and not to solicit members on company property or to coerce or intimidate employees.

To refrain from calling strikes or interfering with production pending the further negotiations.

Both corporation and union agreed to bargain collectively starting February 16 on the union demands listed on January 4 by Homer Martin, union president, in a letter to Knudsen.

Pledges of Corporation. The corporation pledged in a letter to Governor Murphy that for a period of six months it would not negotiate with any employee representative group except the U. A. W. A. in 20 plants where strikes have occurred, without first consulting the Governor, and receiving from him "the sanction of any such contemplated procedure as being justified by law, equity or justice toward the group of employees so represented."

Remaining for negotiation in the conferences which will start next Tuesday in the General Motors building here are such issues as: Abolition of piece-work systems of pay; a 30-hour week, six-hour day and pay and a half for overtime; a "minimum rate of pay commensurate with an American standard of living;" seniority rights; and agreement on speed of production between the management and a union shop committee.

Knudsen announced he believed the negotiations could be concluded in less than 15 days, the period once set for such conferences by the since violated "Lansing agreement" nearly a month ago. His associates in the meetings he said, would be C. E. Wilson, his general assistant, and H. W. Anderson, head of the corporation's industrial relations department.

Knudsen said any benefits given one group in the negotiations would apply likewise to all other employees. Knudsen, predicting the corpora-

Men's Spring Hats Are Lower, Wider, Lighter

Changes in Crowns, Brims and Weights of Felts Reveal Increased Style-Consciousness—Gray With Green Casts Are High Style.

By ROBERT FAIRCHILD,

of MEN'S WEAR Magazine

Lower, wider, lighter are the keywords to the style changes in the new spring hats. They're lower in crown, wider in brim, lighter in the weight of the felt. Two improvements in regard to line, and one in the matter of comfort, are represented here.

This business of lower crowns and wider brims is significant of the greater style-consciousness on the part of the average man. If you remember the snap-brim hats of a few seasons ago, you'll recall that they were high-crowned, with almost conical shapes, and the brims were narrow and sharply curled. Now, this style of hat suits some faces—not many—but the new proportions of lower crown and wider brim fit a great many more.

The vast majority, in fact. With the lower crown, of course, there has been a corresponding narrowing of the band.

This represents an increase in style-consciousness, because, instead of slavishly following the pattern of what everybody else is wearing, there has been a demand by men for a hat that suited them better, and this newly proportioned snap-brim is the result.

Lighter weight in hat felts represents another such step forward. The light-weight felt proved so popular as a summer hat that men began to ask why something along the same lines could not be done for spring, so that the hat might not be a heavy weight upon the brow. This was especially true in homburgs—men who liked the homburg lines, its smartness and more formal air, were frequently discouraged by its weight.

Goodbye to all that in the new homburgs, and the snap-brims too. Lighter-weight felts will bring comfort to many a man this spring to whom hitherto the wearing of a hat was a necessary but thoroughly distasteful burden.

That New Gray Blend

Here's another important style note, this time in the division of color: New gray blends, variously known as pine gray, serpentine gray, etc., that are actually gray with a suspicion of green, are important. Yes, green is being properly employed in hats at last—as an accent note, a cast, a tone, rather than a primary and dominant color, in which latter form it repelled many tastes. This green-gray will be strongly represented on the heads of well-dressed men this season.

Underwelts are stronger in the new styles, too. An underwelt is that type of brim finish in which the felt is folded back and stitched or pressed down on the underside of the brim, whereas an overwelt folds it back over the brim. Many men prefer these underwelts because they're neater-looking. In front, at least, they give a soft, smoother edge. The lightweight homburg, by the way, is preferred nowadays with a welt edge, rather than a silk-bound one.

A note in sport hats is the use of felt or wool bands, to add an extra touch of the country, sporting atmosphere.

Next Friday Robert Fairchild will bring to Constitution readers another talk on spring fashions for men.

Full Text of Agreement Ending Strike in General Motors Plants

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The text of the agreement between the United Automobile Workers' Union and General Motors Corporation that ended the 44-day automotive strike follows:

"Agreement entered into on this 11th day of February, 1937, between the General Motors Corporation (hereinafter referred to as the 'Corporation'), and the International Union, United Automobile Workers of America (hereinafter referred to as the 'Union'):

"1. The Corporation hereby recognizes the Union as the collective bargaining agency for those employees of the Corporation who are members of the Union. The Corporation recognizes and will not interfere with the right of its employees to be members of the Union. There shall be no discrimination, interference, restraint, or coercion by the Corporation or any of its agents against any employee because of membership in the Union.

CORPORATION, UNION TO BEGIN BARGAINING

"2. The Corporation and the Union agree to commence collective bargaining negotiations on February 16, with regard to the issues specified in the letter of January 4, 1937, from the Union to the Corporation, for the purpose of entering into a collective bargaining agreement, or agreements, covering such issues, looking to a final and complete settlement of all matters in dispute.

"3. The Union agrees to forthwith terminate the present strike against the Corporation and to evacuate all plants now occupied by strikers.

"4. The Corporation agrees that all of its plants, which are on strike, shall be operating at full capacity within 12 days, said General Motors expects to carry heavy production longer into the summer this year than ever before due to the strike effects, in order to fill the huge backlog of orders we have."

By the end of January, in which General Motors produced approximately 85,000 units, the passenger car production was almost entirely stopped.

The main problem now, Knudsen said, is "to get people back to work, to get them some income and to get the public some cars."

Martin, who left the peace conferences last week to "tell the world" about the strike issues, hastened back to Detroit by plane this afternoon. He termed the agreement "very satisfactory."

108-DAY-OLD STRIKE IS ENDED IN RACINE

RACINE, Wis., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The 108-day-old labor dispute at the J. I. Case Company's three plants here ended today when members of otherwise idle shall resume operations as rapidly as possible.

"3. It is understood that all employees now on strike or otherwise idle will return to their usual work when called and that no discrimination shall be made or prejudice exercised by the Corporation against any employee because of his former affiliation with, or activities in, the Union or the present strike.

"4. The Union agrees that pending the negotiations referred to in Paragraph Two, there shall be no strikes called or any other interruption to or interference with production, by the Union or its members.

fore the strikers emerged from the plant.

As they left the building, the strikers lowered a huge banner from the roof of the building bearing the words "Victory is Ours" in huge red letters.

General Motors officials, moving just as swiftly to resume production, announced that the plants would reopen Monday.

Two thousand men marched from the No. 1 plant, but hundreds of them had gone in during the afternoon. Best estimates were that 900 were true veterans of the prolonged strike.

Many of the men, clean shaven when the strikes began, wore heavy beards as symbols of their self-imposed 44-day incarceration.

Members of a "bearded band" played furiously on their instruments, but their efforts were nearly lost in the automobile horns and the cheers.

At the head of the procession that formed rapidly was a huge American flag. In the procession, but not at its head, were high officials of the U. A. W. A., among them Homer Martin, the president; Wyndham Mortimer, first vice president who was a signatory to the peace treaty, and Lee Pressman, general counsel of the Committee for Industrial Organization, who also signed the strike-ending agreement.

The defendants are the wives of the supposed kidnapers. They are Agnes Fenimore Oley, wife of John Joseph Oley; Catherine Ryan Oley, wife of Francis Leo Oley; and Josephine R. Geary, wife of Percy Geary, all of Brooklyn, N. Y.

DETROIT, Feb. 11.—(AP)—General Motors agreed today to bargain only with the United Automobile Workers for six months, unless Governor Frank Murphy sanctions negotiations with other groups in twenty strike plants which employ 42,345 of the corporation's 235,000 workers. These plants, and the dates the strikes started, are:

At the same time he predicted more strikes, but said they should not disturb business because they would serve as a balance wheel to check too rapid advancement.

"Incidentally," he said, "I know the administration at Washington does not object to having a little sand thrown into the machinery at this time. The stock market has been going up too fast and the President must hold business back to prevent it from reaching a peak and starting to fall off before the next election."

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Roger W. Babson, statistician and former assistant secretary of labor, today called settlement of the General Motors strike "a draw" with victory for both sides and an indication of improving business and general prosperity.

At the same time he predicted more strikes, but said they should not disturb business because they would serve as a balance wheel to check too rapid advancement.

"Incidentally," he said, "I know the administration at Washington does not object to having a little sand thrown into the machinery at this time. The stock market has been going up too fast and the President must hold business back to prevent it from reaching a peak and starting to fall off before the next election."

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The text of a letter written to Governor Murphy by W. S. Knudsen, in connection with the formal agreement, follows:

"We have been told that the United Automobile Workers of America, in justifying its demand for the bargaining privilege, state that they fear that without protection of some kind we might deliberately proceed to bargain with other groups for the purpose of undermining the position of this particular union. We have said that we have no such intention.

"On the other hand, we cannot enter into any agreement with anyone which can have the effect of denying to any group of our employees the rights of collective bargaining to which it is entitled, and which falls to protect them in the exercise of those rights.

"On our part, therefore, we undertake not to seek or to inspire such action as might have the effect of undermining the position of this particular union.

"This undertaking we assume on condition that the union refrain from coercion and intimidation inside and outside of the shop in its efforts to increase its membership.

"As evidence of our intention to do all we can to hasten the resumption of work in our plants and to promote peace, we hereby agree with you that within a period of six months from the resumption of work we will not bargain with or enter into agreements with any other union or representative or employees of plants on strike in respect to such matters of general corporate policy as referred to in letter of January 4, without first submitting to you the facts of the situation and gaining from you the sanction of any such contemplated procedure as being justified by law, equity or justice towards the group of employees so represented."

G. M. C. DISCONTINUED ESPIONAGE SERVICES, SENATE INQUIRY TOLD

Charts Show Auto Manufacturers Have Paid Pinkerton Agency $419,850.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Senate investigators heard testimony today that General Motors Corporation had discontinued the industrial espionage services of the Pinkerton Detective Agency as an indirect result of the senate civil liberties inquiry.

General Motors, largest industrial client of Pinkerton, dropped the service 11 days ago.

Robert Dudley, Pinkerton vice president, told the civil liberties committee that General Motors gave no reason for the termination but it was because Pinkerton had stopped making written reports.

The Pinkerton agency ceased submitting written reports on labor matters to any of its clients after it had been subpoenaed in the investigation.

Chairman La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, produced charts showing General Motors had paid Pinkerton $419,850 between January 1, 1934, and July 31, 1936.

La Follette detected a $40,000 discrepancy between the 1935 payments as submitted by the committee investigators and the figure filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission by the company. The committee compilation showed General Motors had paid $208,533 in 1935, as against the SEC figure of $167,536.

A man who identified himself as S. E. Fawcett and who said he was city clerk of Smyrna, was taken into custody by Fulton county police at about 12:30 o'clock this morning after the car he was driving crashed head-on into a street car on Howell Mill road, at Fourteenth street, injuring a woman companion.

The woman, listed as Mrs. Hoke Cochran, 25, of a Linden street address, suffered severe bruises. She was treated at Grady hospital. Fawcett declined hospital treatment, although doctors believe he suffered internal injuries. The automobile was traveling outbound, and the street car was proceeding inbound. PUBLIC DEBT TOTALS $267.36 PER CAPITA Big Increase Is Laid to Recent Payment of Soldiers' Bonus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Treasury ledgers showed today that if all the nation's 129,000,000 inhabitants pitched in to wipe out the federal debt it would cost them $267.36 each.

The debt, climbing since 1930, now stands at an unprecedented peak of $34,500,000,000. This is about double the figure of the late 20s and almost $8,000,000,000 over the 1919 war-time high.

More than half of the debt is owed to banks, another large chunk to insurance companies and corporations and most of the remainder to individuals.

There is about $2,000,000,000, however, that the government, in effect, owes to itself. This is represented by obligations held in trust accounts by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the postal savings system and similar agencies.

Big Bank Holdings.
Of the remaining $32,500,000,000, banks hold $17,400,000,000, of which $2,400,000,000 is in Federal Reserve banks. Insurance companies and corporations and hundreds of thousands of individuals—and treasury does not know how many—have the rest.

Foreign holdings are not separately recorded, but much imported capital probably has flowed into government obligations. During the first nine months of last year, $460,000,000 of foreign funds came to this country for investment.

The public debt has followed an up-and-down course since 1890, when it stood at $33,000,000 or $15.87 per capita. It dropped to $3,800,000, or only 21 cents per capita, in 1840.

Lifted to $2,600,000,000 by the Civil War in 1865, the debt stayed above the $2,000,000,000 until 1892. Fluctuating between $1,000,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 until 1917, it soared from $2,900,000,000 in the latter year to the $26,500,000,000 war high.

ROBED KLANSMEN BID GYPSIES ADIEU

Call for 'Sheriff' Unavailing in Guided Cobb County Exit.

Four automobiles containing members of the Ku Klux Klan, in full regalia, early last night escorted out of Cobb county and Atlanta four automobiles containing members of a gypsy camp.

The gypsies, who had camped for several days in Cobb county, near the Chattahoochee river, were "requested" to break camp and move on. They did, with the Klansmen following.

When the caravan reached a gasoline station at Spring and Nelson streets, drivers of the gypsies' cars "gassed up," as others, more excited, set up cries of "Call the sheriff! Where's the sheriff?"

Police arrived, but were told the Klansmen had neither threatened the gypsies nor used violence. The caravan then proceeded out the Dixie highway until the gypsies were well out of town.

CARDENAS MAY ALLOW CHURCHES' REOPENING

Government Reported Ready To Turn Edifices Over to 'Layman's Committees.'

ORIZABA, Vera Cruz State, Mexico, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Orizaba Catholics, in "peaceful rebellion" over anti-church legislation, rejoiced tonight upon hearing President Lazaro Cardenas was considering letting them lawfully reopen their churches.

They received word through widely distributed handbills that the federal government was preparing to turn the edifices over to "layman's committees."

Of the city's 14 churches, four were open tonight.

All 14 had been reopened by the people Tuesday, but police unexpectedly closed them against early today.

Police and soldiers stood back when a few hours later, the Catholics came.

mass bore down against upon the four most prominently located buildings and reopened them.

Governor Miguel Aleman, who came from Jalapa, pleaded for prudence, but added a warning police would be "forced to intervene, if necessary, to maintain order."

Reports received by Catholic leaders from Mexico City were that President Cardenas had instructed the treasury department—custodian of all churches under legislation nationalizing church property—to study the question of turning the buildings over to "laymen's committees."

NEGRO IS CONVICTED IN BATHTUB SLAYING OF GOTHAM MATRON

Court Will Pass Death Sentence on Major Green
February 19.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Major Green, 33-year-old slayer of Mrs. Mary Case, was convicted of first degree murder tonight by a jury in Queens county court. A death sentence is mandatory.

The jury of middle-aged men, all married, took three hours and one minute to decide the fate of Green, whose lawyers admitted he had done the brutal murder and attempted only to save him from the electric chair.

When the verdict was announced, Green's jaw tensed, his lips tightened. Sentence will be passed February 19 in the same courthouse where Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray were sentenced to death for the sashweight murder of her husband.

The conviction came a month to the day after the negro houseman blindfolded to death the pretty housewife in her Jackson Heights apartment and left her body in the bathtub, where her husband, a hotel accountant, found it.

A few days after Green was arrested, another bathtub slayer died at Sing Sing prison in the electric chair, that is to claim Green. He was John Florenza, the upholsterer's apprentice who strangled to death the young author, Mrs. Nancy Evans Titterton.

Developer of Bronchoscope Is Feted Here

Advanced Bronchoscopic Work Is Outlined Here by Dr. Jackson

Noted Philadelphia Surgeon Explains Methods in First of Eguen Memorial Lectures; Advances in Technique Cited in Speech.

Advanced methods of all phases of bronchoscopic treatments from inflammatory conditions to cancer were described last night by Dr. Chevalier Jackson, known throughout the medical world as "The Father of Bronchoscopy," before a meeting of the Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Jackson delivered the annual Jonte Eguen Memorial Lecture. His subject was "Pulmonary Abscess in Adults and Children Based on a Series of Clinical Observations." Throughout the lecture, Dr. Jackson illustrated his points with camera slides.

"Bronchoscopy is not a substitute for any other method of diagnosis or treatment," the noted doctor emphasized. "It is merely used to determine local conditions in the bronchial tube. Other methods of diagnosis are needed and the family physician, the pathologist, the internist, all must be consulted."

Pulmonary Abscess.
Pulmonary abscess was described as a serious disease but not nearly as dangerous as it was when Dr. Jackson said he began practice. He attributed the development to contributions from all doctors. At one time patients all died of this disease, he said, but now "most of them get well."

Dr. Jackson described the anatomy of the lungs and the bronchial tubes and the appearance of various tumors from inflammatory to cancer.

In explaining the use of the bronchoscope, he told how to place the tubular instrument through the mouth down into the lungs. He described how one is able to see diseased tissue this way and described technically how delicate instruments could be brought into use to drain abscesses or to remove either in part or in toto tumor mass.

"The perfection of the bronchoscope has met untold progress in aiding not only the diagnosis of human ailments and the lessening of suffering but in the saving of lives," Dr. Jackson, the man who developed it, declared.

Following the lecture, the assembled doctors from all sections of the state, were entertained at a reception given by Dr. and Mrs. Murdock Eguen, of Atlanta.

Dr. Jackson is a native American, now living in Philadelphia. He is 72 years old, and is still active in practice and is said to be unselfish in giving his time to the advancement of the science of medicine.

This was the first Eguen Memorial lecture which was given by Dr. Murdock Eguen in memory of his late father, Jonte Eguen.

Dr. Jackson was introduced by Dr. Arthur G. Fort, who read an introduction prepared by Dr. Dunbar Roy, lifetime friend of Dr. Jackson, who was unable to attend the lecture due to illness.

chases, of which complaint is made, originate inside the city."

In the crash Wednesday night, most recent of a long series caused by county police chases of suspected automobiles, Harry Matthews, 22, of 211 Grove street, Decatur, was killed when his car, with two cases of whisky in it, crashed into another automobile at Third and Fowler streets, driving the second car through nine-foot fence at Grant field, Georgia Tech athletic stadium.

Matthews' car was being chased at the time by County Policemen W. A. Vinson and J. B. Jackson.

Three-Mile Chase.
On Tuesday night last Radio Patrolmen J. A. Bailey and R. R. Davis chased a car for three miles through the city streets, the race ending when the automobile struck an embankment at the dead end of Fern street while traveling at a speed of between 65 and 70 miles an hour.

The car turned over at least 10 times," the police officers said. They found 88 gallons of liquor in the car and, after his injuries had kept him in Grady for a couple of days, he was arrested and is now held under a $500 bond. His name is given as Whit McCrary.

And yesterday, in recorder's court, Judge A. W. Callaway fined James Morrow at total of $145 on various charges growing out of a 15-mile race, in broad daylight yesterday forenoon, through the city streets, chiefly in West End. The pursuing officers in this case were Lieutenant Reggie McLean and Patrolman C. J. Harris. In this case the police car and the alleged liquor car were officially reported as traveling 65 miles an hour.

When Traffic Was Heaviest.
This was at about 10 o'clock in the morning, when traffic on the city streets is at its heaviest.

Ralph J. "Jimmie" Hancock, 22, of Marietta, former Tech student, driver of the second car in the crash, suffered severe cuts on head, face and body and narrowly escaped death in the crash. Frank Hall, 21, also of 211 Grove street, Decatur, alleged passenger in the liquor car, suffered minor injuries. After treatment at Grady hospital he was arrested on suspicion.

Curbing of police cars will be taken up by the city police committee at its meeting tonight, Bridges said, adding that some method must be devised to stop the wild chases through streets crowded with traffic.

"It will take a lot of captured liquor and fined 'bug' operators to balance the scales when the life of an innocent Atlanta child lies, sacrificed, in the other scale," said one prominent citizen, yesterday.

JURY CALLED IN SLAYING.
HARLAN, Ky., Feb. 11.—(P)—Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert today ordered a special session of the Harlan county grand jury to convene Monday to investigate the slaying of Bennett Musick, 19, shot to death Tuesday night. Musick is a son of M. A. Musick, organizer for the United Mine Workers of America, for whom the bullets were believed intended.

VETERANS' CHIEF RAPS DEMAND FOR PENSIONS

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Donald A. Hobart, of Bronxville, N. Y., national commander of the American Veterans' Association, said tonight a growing demand for World War veterans' demand for World War pensions threatened to make the term "veteran" will "become an anathema to the public."

Asserting the people have not yet finished paying for the War of 1812, the War Between the States, the Indian Wars and the Spanish-American conflict, Hobart said that if the trend of the World War benefits follows the trend of other wars, "the ultimate cost of World War benefits will be in excess of $100,000,000,000."

RUSHTON WILL HEAD SOUTHERN ICE GROUP AS PRESIDENT IN 1937

Exchange Closes Convention Here; E. L. Gunn Heads Georgia Association.

Frank Rushton, of Birmingham, was elected president of the Southern Ice Exchange, succeeding Howard W. McCall, of Chattanooga, as southeastern ice manufacturers closed their annual two-day convention at the Piedmont hotel here yesterday.

Members of the Georgia Ice Manufacturers' Association, meeting jointly with the Ice Exchange, named E. L. Gunn Jr., of Atlanta, president of their body to succeed W. R. Crossfield, of Griffin. Members of the South Carolina Ice Manufacturers' Association did not elect new officers.

During the sessions yesterday H. W. Caldwell, of LaGrange, discussed the use of the refrigerator in the rural districts and pointed out reasons why ice was preferred for refrigeration in these sections. G. F. Bunn, of Montezuma, and W. R. Crossfield, of Griffin, also spoke on ice service to rural communities and farmers.

Methods of selling ice refrigerators and of advertising the air-conditioned ice refrigerators were described by Gunn, O. Lee Gordon, of Columbia, S. C., and V. C. Loke, of Dothan, Ala. Following this were other discussions of the $1,000,000 national advertising campaign which is being sponsored by the national ice dealers.

Other officers elected by the Ice Exchange were H. R. Creamer, of Augusta, vice president; Willshire Riley, of Atlanta, secretary and treasurer. The Georgia association named G. F. Bunn, of Montezuma, vice president and Willshire Riley secretary-treasurer.

The following board of directors for the Ice Exchange was named: H. W. McCall, of Chattanooga; R. C. Jennings Jr., of Orangeburg, S. C.; A. W. Faulkner, of Asheville, S. C.; C. H. Behre, of New Orleans; R. J. Hancock, of Marietta; W. W. Simmons Jr., of Memphis; F. W. Reazley, of Atlanta; H. C. Hill, of Tallahassee, Fla.; R. S. Burruss, of Raleigh, N. C.; and H. P. LIFE TERM SENTENCE FOR SLAYER UPHOLD

The Georgia supreme court yesterday affirmed the life sentence imposed upon Tom Booker, an Augusta negro, for the death of H. A. Sturdivant, former chief of police of Washington, Ga.

Chief Sturdivant was a brother of former Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant, of Atlanta.

The record in the case said H. A. Sturdivant and another Washington policeman sought to arrest Booker on suspicion that he was driving a stolen automobile. As they sought to handcuff the negro, he suddenly started the car and crashed into a telephone pole. Chief Sturdivant, standing on the running board, was crushed to death.

The supreme court had given Booker a new trial on the first appearance of the case before it. The jury found the negro guilty of murder but recommended mercy at both trials.

MRS. HENSON GUILTY OF HUSBAND'S DEATH

Voluntary Manslaughter Verdict Returned; Jury Fixes Maximum at 20 Years.

Mrs. Eva Henson, on trial for the murder of her husband, Olin, December 23, on Pryor street, yesterday was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter by a Fulton superior court jury which recommended the maximum sentence of 20 years. Sentence will be passed by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey this morning.

Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews had requested the death penalty.

The defendant in her statement claimed her husband had continuously abused her and that after he had slapped her in front of the Pryor street cafe on the night of the fatal stabbing she did not remember a thing until she "came to in the police station."

Proceedings in the trial were suddenly interrupted yesterday morning when a juror, who had been pricking his ear with a pin, lost it in the ear's recesses. Andrews halted his argument and the juror was taken to the office of Dr. W. L. Gilbert, county health officer, where the pin was recovered.

There was some debate last night as to interpretation of the jury's verdict, which did not fix a minimum sentence.

POLICE COMMITTEEMEN GET 'UNFIT' LIST TODAY

Chief Hornsby To Submit Report Tonight; Traffic Problems on Agenda.

A list of officers who will be required to stand physical examinations as a part of the "police department clean-up" will be submitted to the police committee at its meeting tonight by Police Chief M. A. Hornsby.

Committeemen are expected to order a number of officers thought to be physically incapable of doing their duty to take physical examinations. Those who do not pass will be asked to make application for their pensions.

Hornsby said his list will not be only of men with 25 years of service or more, but will include all he thinks are physically unfit.

Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the committee, asked the chief to submit the list last Tuesday night when a special meeting was called off because a quorum could not be obtained.

Traffic problems will be considered by the committee tonight also. Bridges recommended that the no-left-turn law be repealed and that trucks be allowed to double park while loading and unloading without cases being made against the drivers. Chief Hornsby said no cases have been made for violation of the left turn ordinance, and that officers have been instructed not to arrest truck drivers while loading and unloading.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN WOULD BE ABOLISHED

Beck Draws Bill for Introduction in Assembly by Fulton Delegates.

Abolishment of the board of aldermen of Atlanta will be asked of the general assembly by Councilman J. Frank Beck, of the fifth ward, he announced yesterday.

Beck said he is having prepared a bill to eliminate the bicameral government of the city and that it will be introduced in the general assembly by the Fulton delegation.

"Our present form of government, with the two bodies, the aldermen and councilmen, is outmoded and obsolete," Beck declared. "This type of government has been discarded by every city of size in the United States."

Beck asserted the aldermanic board was originally created as a check on financial expenditures by the city.

"We have four checks on spending now," he said. "First, the budget commission anticipates the income and it cannot be legally exceeded."

"Council itself votes on all expenditures and the mayor has the right of veto of any financial paper. The aldermanic board now has to approve all expenditures but the board is no longer necessary."

The fifth ward councilman pointed out that a bloc of three aldermen can prevent any paper carrying an appropriation from being approved by general council although council itself might favor it overwhelmingly.

He cited the example of the city's relief allocation for February being held up by Alderman Robert Carpenter and Alderman G. Dan Bridges, although favored three to two by the aldermanic board.

There are at present 12 members of council and six aldermen. The number was reduced this year from a total of 30 members of council when the wards of the city were cut from 18 to six.

Beck declared his proposed bill will eliminate the position of alderman entirely and place the governing power in the 12 councilmanic positions.

NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT TO BE ASKED FOR CITY

$30,000 Purchase on Installment Plan Favored by Councilman Marler.

Immediate purchase of $30,000 worth of fire-fighting equipment on an extended payment plan will be advocated in council Monday by Councilman John T. Marler, chairman of the board of firemasters.

Arrangements are to be worked out whereby the city can buy the much-needed equipment over a period of three years on a rental plan, it was said.

G. L. Swan, engineer of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, who recently made a survey of fire department needs, recommended in his report that the city buy immediately a 1,500-gallon pumper to replace one which has failed, and a modern 85-foot aerial ladder.

The pumper would cost approximately $14,000, while the ladder, which would be placed with company No. 4, would cost about $16,000.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said this equipment would "be a great help in case of a serious fire."

Swan, who criticized the personnel of the department by saying it "lacked knowledge," declared the new equipment is necessary for proper efficiency in the department.

Councilman Marler did not say when the plan will be submitted to council but it was expected the matter will be brought up Monday if details are completed by that time.

The arrangements would involve a quarterly or yearly rental for the machinery which would apply to its purchase price over a period of years.

CITIZENS TO CONSIDER LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

Proposed legislative program of the city of Atlanta will be considered again today at a conference of prominent Atlantans with Mayor Hartfield and the municipal legislation committee at 10 o'clock this morning at the city hall.

It was not known whether action will be taken on the seven bills already drawn for presentation to the Fulton delegation, since some of the citizens wish to await the report of Dr. Thomas H. Reed, municipal and county government expert, on his survey of Atlanta's government.

Dr. Reed, employed by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to make the survey, will make his recommendations within 10 days, it was said.

hospital. About $700 in cash, taken during the holdups, was found in one of his pockets.

Hazlerigs said the bandits entered the drugstore shortly before midnight. Armed with pistols, they took $100 in cash and narcotics valued at $150. They then, he said, commanded him to close the establishment and get into their automobile.

"They drove around for a while," Hazlerigs said, "and then they stopped at a house, where I understood they were to have a drink of beer in a safe at your house. Something like between $1,500 and $2,000. Suppose we go there and see."

The bandits then said, "But I'll tell you what we'll do, if you haven't got as much as $1,000 there, we won't bother it," according to Hazlerigs.

The bandits then drove to Hazlerigs' home, where his wife and baby were asleep. Entering the house, the bandits threw him into a chair and trussed him with wide adhesive tape.

"They told me to tell them the combination of the safe. I thought they were going to kill me, and so I did," said Hazlerigs. As the bandits opened the safe, Mrs. Hazlerigs, awakened by the noise and voices, came into the room.

She pleaded with the bandits not to kill her husband, and one of them said, "Don't worry, lady."

Meanwhile, as the bandits opened the safe, with Schooley taking $600 in cash from it, Hazlerigs looked for a chance to escape. He leaped toward a dresser drawer and drew a weapon, opening fire. As Schooley fell, mortally wounded, the other bandit ran from the house.

Hazlerigs said he knew Hambrick and his wife, who attended public school with him, also told detectives she was "sure the other man was Hambrick."

The break at Kirby occurred when the convicts scaled the prison wall with a makeshift ladder after throwing power wrenches and plunging the wire into darkness.

Schooley and another convict, who were "semi-trusted" and who worked in the power house, overpowered the engineer and cut off the electricity power. Hamp Draper, head of the Alabama state convict department, said:

"They then brought the crude ladder from a tunnel under the prison and climbed over the wall."

Hambrick figured in the recent trial of Ollie W. Flinker, convicted of the slaying of Eddie Goyall, Atlanta numbers "bunny" who was later revealed he was identified with Flinker as bandits who participated in two holdups here.

At the time of Flinker's trial, detectives said they received information Hambrick had "vowed" to "spring" Flinker from his incarceration here.

NEW LAWS TO REVIVE OLD NRA STANDARDS ARE SEEN THIS SESSION

Ellenbogen Assured of Ad- ministration Support in Bill To Aid Textiles.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(UP)—An administration drive to revive NRA standards in major industries through separate laws drafted to meet the specific problems in each industry was indicated tonight by moves in congress.

The house ways and means committee, reportedly acting on a suggestion from the White House, decided to take up Monday the revised Guffey-Vinson bill creating a "little NRA" for the bituminous coal industry. Members indicated it would be reported promptly for house action. Passage is virtually assured with both factions of organized labor supporting it.

Representative Henry Ellenbogen, Democrat, Pennsylvania, said he was assured of administration support in a drive for early passage of his bill providing for similar federal regulation of the textile industry. One congressman said President Roosevelt had expressed a desire to his congressional leaders for passage of the coal and textile control measures this session regardless of what might be done toward general regulation of all industry as under the old NRA.

Specific Problems. Laws designed to meet the specific problems in these major industries could either stand alone or supplement a more extensive program, it was pointed out. The bill introduced in the house by Vinson and in the senate by Senator Joseph P. Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania, is similar to the one passed by the house last session. A one-man filibuster by Senator Rush Holt, Democrat, West Virginia, killed it in the senate.

National Commission. It provides for a national commission to fix minimum standards for prices for coal and enforce fair trade practices, but omits provisions for regulation of labor conditions which the supreme court outlawed in killing the original Guffey act last year. Compliance would be forced by a 13.12 percent tax on interstate coal sales by concerns not living up to code provisions. The Ellenbogen bill would provide a national textile commission empowered to prescribe fair trade practices, including minimum wage and maximum hour standards. The bill itself fixes a 35-hour work week at an $18 minimum weekly wage, until changed by the commission.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

"Mad Holiday" To Play Rialto Starting Today

"Mad Holiday," new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production starring Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi, is a romantic detective story involving a screen star, a lady novelist, a Chinese actor and his wife, a famous jeweler and other lesser characters. It comes to the Rialto theater today for a week's engagement.

Most of the action, including the murder, the theft and practically all of the detective work, takes place either on board a palatial passenger liner or back stage at a Chinese theater in San Francisco. And it is promising to be as fast, so suspenseful and so thrilling this has already been dubbed, by various critics, as one of the finest detective yarns to reach the screen in many a long week.

In addition to the two leading players, the cast includes such well-known and popular actors as Zasu Pitts, Edmund Gwenn, Ted Healy, Edgar Kennedy, Raymond Hatton, Gustaf Von Seyffertitz, etc. It was directed by George B. Seitz and the scenario was suggested by the story by Joseph Santley, "Murder in a Chinese Theater."

It is packed with thrills from start to finish, it has comedy sufficient to keep you happy throughout and the love story between Edmund Lowe and Elissa Landi is of the type that charms both men and women in every audience. Manager W. T. Murray has added another clever group of his specially selected short subjects to a feature which should delight the box office for the entire seven days of its billing, through Thursday next.

"After the Thin Man" Again Plays at Grand

"After the Thin Man," one of the new season's hits, which stars William Powell and Myrna Loy, comes to Loew's Grand theater today for a week's return engagement. Highly successful during its first run, "After the Thin Man" will be welcomed back by many who saw it and many others who were unable to gain admission. The mixture of comedy and drama which W. S. Van Dyke unfailingly injects into a mystery picture is evident in "After the Thin Man," sequel to "The Thin Man," which set a new mark in motion pictures two years ago.

Returning from their New York venture to their home in San Francisco, Nick and Nora Charles, played by William Powell and Myrna Loy, are on the trail of a murderer. The supporting cast includes such well-known featured players as James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Joseph Calleia, Jessie Ralph and Asta, the remarkable wire-haired terrier of "The Thin Man."

A M-G-M. tabloid musical, "Every Sunday," with Deanna Durbin, sensational starlet of Eddie Cantor's radio hour; a Harmonizing color cartoon, "Circus Daze," and a double-length "News of the Day" complete the program.

"Wanted: Jane Turner" At Capitol on Sunday

Inside operations by the United States postal inspectors is said to provide exciting screen entertainment in "Wanted: Jane Turner," co-starring Lee Tracy and Gloria Stuart, which arrives at the Capitol for a week's engagement next Sunday.

Based on an occurrence similar to the famous Kansas City mail robbery, the film reaches dramatic heights as the ace inspector, Tracy, with his assistant, Miss Stuart, pursues the gang leader after a cohort has been placed behind bars. Tracy finds Miss Stuart's constant association with him extremely disagreeable until a thrilling crisis proves she is something more than an assistant to him and to the government.

Capitol's new stage show starting Sunday will be "Swingtime Varieties" with a large cast of stage and radio stars. "King of the Royal Mounted," an original Zane Grey screen story, is offered at the Capitol through Saturday in conjunction with "Just Foolin'" on the stage.

"On the Avenue" at Fox Has Songs by Berlin

With songs by Irving Berlin carrying it to new heights of swanky melody, "On the Avenue," Twentieth-Century Fox's sparkling musical production, opens today at the Fox theater, with a stellar cast of entertainers and the latest hits by the man to whose music most of the world makes love.

In this real life romance of New York, gay and glamorous as the town itself, Dick Powell and Madeleine Carroll, a combination new to musical comedy, make a handsome and romantic team, ably surrounded by such masters of mirth and melody as Alice Faye, and Ritz Brothers and George Barbier. "On the Avenue" gets off to a hilarious start when Madeleine Carroll, as a wealthy debutante, George Barbier, as her father, and Alan Mowbray, as an explorer, enter a theater just as Dick Powell, Alice Faye and the Ritz brothers are going into a farcical burlesque of the home life of "the richest girl in the world."

As the infuriated family stalks from the theater, voicing threats of damage suits to the manager, Madeleine heads for the stage entrance and, brushing past the doorman, snatches Alice's wig off and starts to wreck Dick's dressing room before she is ejected.

The six song hits Berlin wrote for "On the Avenue" are "This Year's Kisses," "You're Laughing at Me," "Slumming on Park Avenue," "I've Got My Love to Keep Me Warm," "The Girl on the Police Gazette," and "He Ain't Got Rhythm."

"Light Brigade" Opens At Paramount Today

Since the first film company took a camera out on a vacant lot and made a picture, studios have been building stories around famous poems. Sometimes the result was good cinema—more often it wasn't. "Barbara Fritchley" did not prove exceptional film.

But Lord Tennyson's poem about "The Charge of the Light Brigade," now a Warner Brothers picture, starring Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland, is a different story.

land and coming to the Paramount theater on Friday, was treated so differently it is an unqualified hit.

A year and a half ago, Jacoby went to the studio with his plan to make "The Charge of the Light Brigade," to use the charge as the climax for a story about two brothers, a girl, a troop of lancers and a racially biased chieftain. Warner Brothers bought his idea and put Jacoby and Howland Leigh to work on it. After eight months they turned in the completed script.

The picture required a tremendous amount of research before a camera could be turned. Captain E. Rochfort Johns, former British officer, and now a member of the Warner Brothers research department, spent six months ferreting out data about houses, guns, sabers, lances, battle flags, and Crimea and the like. British war-department maps of the battlefield at Balaklava were needed. So were pictures of British garrisons that stood on the Indian borders in 1850.

The script and the research material were turned over to Director Michael Curtiz. It took him a month to get his cast together. He didn't have to look far for a hero because he had just completed a picture called "Captain Blood," which sent a young unknown named Errol Flynn skyrocketing to stardom. But it wasn't so easy to find men who spoke with a British accent, who could ride and who looked well in uniform.

While Curtiz was picking his cast, two ace property men, "Scotty" Moore and "Timmy" Piers, were getting thousands of props together. Lances, pistols, cannons, flags, sabers, drums, bugles, saddles, blankets and similar equipment of the period were being turned in the prop shop. An entire building was needed to store the properties.

PRESIDENT ASKS FUNDS FOR HUGE LABOR MEET

International Parley Will Meet in U. S. to Conduct Textile Survey.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(P)—President Roosevelt, in letters to Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead, asked today for appropriation of $15,000 for expenses of the international labor organization meeting in this country next April.

The chief executive said the organization would study world-wide problems of the textile industry. A report of a special cabinet committee on the subject, Mr. Roosevelt said, "convinced me that a thorough survey of all aspects of the textile industries in all parts of the world was essential to the development of any policy which seeks to bring stability to textile workers and employers."

In view of the importance of the textile industries to American investors and to the 600,000 American workers who derive their living from the industry, he said, "I have felt that we would have much to gain by having the international labor organization hold its textile conference in the United States."

MORMONS HAD "PWA."
The New Deal can't claim all credit for inaugurating Public Works Programs in Salt Lake City. For in 1850, Brigham Young, second president of the Church of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) ordered construction of the famous Eagle Gate—spanning what is now State street—as a move to aid indigent Mormons.

A naturalist reports that the many dead fish found in a stream after a nearby forest fire, were apparently killed by the ash which fell in the water and formed a toxic solution, and not by the heat from the fire.

For the first time, one of the Biological Survey's bird bands has been reported and recovered in Asia—a pintail duck banded in California was killed in northeast Siberia by an Eskimo.

AUTOPSY SHOWS FOUR IN BAY CRASH DROWNED

Landing Gear on Plane Had Not Been Let Down, Newspaper Asserts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—(AP) Mute evidence that death overtook them as they struggled in the submerged wreckage of a skyliner came

EASY, SAFE WAY TO TREAT CUTS—BURNS

Scalds and Bruises—Proper treatment should be given quickly—not only to relieve pain but to prevent bad after effects. For sure, safe results apply OIL of BALT. It relieves pain almost instantly—OIL of BALT should be in every home—for emergencies. At all druggists.

tonight from autopsy examinations of four of the 11 persons who died when the giant transport plunged into the waters of San Francisco bay.

While four agencies dug silently into the available evidence for the crash cause, the post-mortem examinations showed all four of the victims whose bodies have been recovered thus far, were alive after the plane struck, and that at least three of them died by drowning.

Landing Gear O. K.
Although the plane struck within a few seconds of its projected landing time, the Oakland Tribune said investigators had discovered its landing gear had not been let down to landing position, and that its wing flaps, designed to slow the landing speed, were not adjusted for that purpose.

The Tribune said the investigators declined to be quoted by name. The four agencies inquiring into the disaster are the Department of Commerce, the San Mateo county coroner, William Crosby; the United Air Lines, and the Douglas Aircraft Corporation, manufacturer of the plane. Investigators thus far have theorized that Pilot A. R. "Tommy" Thompson, veteran United Air Lines flyer, possibly misjudged his altitude or inadvertently permitted the plane to stall, and that it struck the water at high speed and flopped over on its back.

Struggled to Survive.
Dr. Joseph N. Dallal said his examination of the body of Mark Fontana, San Francisco food manufacturer, revealed a terrific struggle to survive.
"The head was quite ruddy and the veins distended," said Dr. Dallal, "showing a desperate effort was made. Examination shows he was fully conscious—not even dazed—after the terrific impact, but as to how long he fought, I cannot say."

"The fact that the artificial teeth were intact and in place indicated no relaxation. Had he been unconscious, the teeth would have had a tendency to slip."

"There was considerable water in the lungs."

AGED AUTO STILL RUNS.

CANTON, N. Y., Feb. 11.—(AP) Edmund Simmons, 72, of Gouverneur, bought a license today for his 1917 model light touring car to start it off on the twentieth consecutive year of service.

Planes Off Honduras Attack British Ship

BELIZE, British Honduras, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The sloop Stella H. Captain H. Powrie reported, was subjected today to a machine gun attack by two unidentified planes off the coast here.
"About 1,500 rounds were fired by one plane, and another burst of fire came from two planes four hours later," he said.
The British government was reported inquiring into the matter in an effort to establish nationality of the planes and reasons for the attack.

FIRE RAZES CITY HALL.

HAWTHORNE, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP) Flames fanned by a high wind destroyed the city hall here today and for a time threatened the entire business district. Fire fighting apparatus was rushed from Gainesville, 16 miles away.

6 HELD ON CHARGES INVOLVING DRUGS

One Arrested Charged Also With Forgery; Woman Companion Nabbed.

Charged with violating the federal Harrison narcotic act, six men were arrested here yesterday by City Detective W. D. McGee, attached to the Federal Narcotic Bureau, following an extended period of investigation. Those taken into custody were listed as Joe and Bill Benson, brothers, of a Fowler street address, Bud Skorey, of a Harris street address; J. W. Bradley, alias J. B. Foster, of a West Peachtree place address; Henry Bone, of a Mill street address, and Pete Gerakatis.

Gerakatis was held in $2,000 bond yesterday afternoon by Recorder A. W. Callaway, for city criminal court, on charges of forgery, and a companion, Virginia Harvey, was held in $500 bond on similar charges. Gerakatis is an alleged heroin seller.
Joe Benson, according to detectives, was taken into custody two months ago when he stepped from a train at Brookwood station, a quantity of narcotics allegedly in his possession. He was free under $5,000 bond when arrested on the new charge.

BATTLE OF JUTLAND SUBJECT OF SPEAKER

The Battle of Jutland and its significance to world history was explained by Dr. W. O. Stevens, dean of journalism and English of Oglethorpe University, in an address Wednesday night at the monthly dinner of the Navy and Marine Club of Atlanta, held at the Georgia School of Technology.

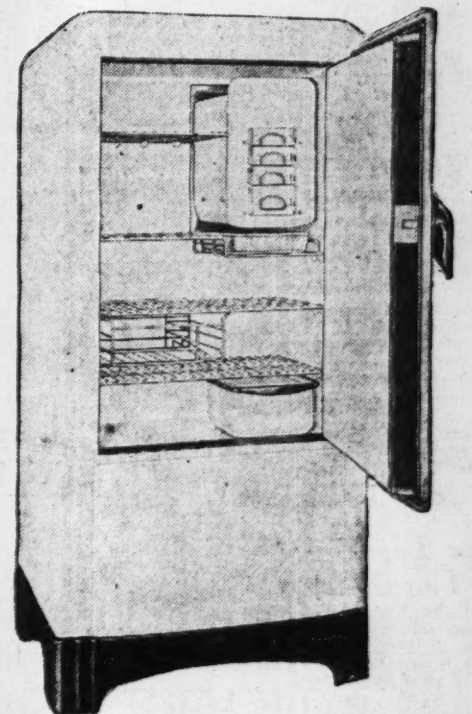

The club, comprised of regular and reserve men living in Atlanta, heard Dr. Stevens "explode" the so-called myth of the Battle of Jutland, giving a lack of communications as the reason for the failure of a decisive defeat of the German fleet. He declared a defeat of the German fleet at this battle would have meant a quicker ending of the World War, with the United States remaining out of the conflict.

Charming Matrons From Hartford Arrive for Visit in Atlanta

By Sally Forth.

CHARMING visitors to Atlanta who will add interest to social gatherings during February are Mrs. John Wilson, of Hartford, Conn., and Mrs. Nell Brown Coleman, a former Atlantan who resides in Hartford. They are the guests of Mrs. Sophie Wilson Brannon at her home on The Prado. Mrs. Wilson maintains a beautiful home in Hartford and in Fenwick, Conn., on the shore. Her Hartford residence is near that of the family home of Katharine Hepburn, and the glamorous film star's mother is a devoted friend of Mrs. Wilson.

She is a lover of flowers and her gardens are noted throughout the state for their unusual beauty. Even though Hartford is so far north, where Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Coleman left for Boston to take the boat a friend sent them boxes of exquisite pink camellias, which were grown right there in Hartford. So perfect were the delicately shaded blossoms and foliage that the departing matrons had them put on ice when they boarded the ship.

On their arrival in Norfolk, they stepped into Mrs. Wilson's motor and her chauffeur drove them to Atlanta. During the trip they took care of their precious camellias and the fragile flowers have been the center of admiration and discussion among Atlanta flower lovers, who can't grow them successfully even in this section of Georgia without protection.

After several weeks in Atlanta, the attractive Hartford matrons and their hosts, Mrs. Brannon, will leave for Florida, where they will tour through the lovely land of palms, and then motor to Natchez to view the famed Mississippi gardens.

When Augusta King started out Wednesday for luncheon with her friend, Thelma Firestone, she little dreamed that the occasion would be a surprise party in honor of her departure yesterday for Columbus, where she has accepted a responsible executive position with the National Youth Administration.

For the past few months Augusta has been working in the personnel department of a credit company and the girls in her department decided to surprise her with a farewell party. It fell to Thelma's lot to keep her in suspense until they walked into the dining room of a popular restaurant, where the other girls were grouped around the jonquil-decorated table, calling out "surprise."

The occasion was tinged with sadness but there was plenty of fun. Each of the girls had brought some humorous gift for Augusta to take away with her. One of these was a miniature radio, to bring Atlanta nearer to her, and another was a woolly dog to serve as watchdog. The capitol that one friend brought was to serve as protection, and anyone as pretty as Augusta will need plenty of that.

Enjoying the party with the honor guest were Thelma Firestone, Reatha Heeden, Martha Callaway, Martha Tigner, Grace Sells, Frances Harrison, Grace Stephens, Myrtle Adams, Ruth Pannell and Hortense Sewell. Augusta, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton King, of 1161 Briarcliff road, and the granddaughter of Mrs. William C. King, is one of the most beautiful and popular members of the young social contingent and she will be sincerely missed from all activities here. She was graduated last June from Agnes Scott College, where she was a Phi Beta Kappa, and she has filled most acceptably her position at the credit company during the intervening months. She has found time for philanthropic work, too, being a member of the Girls' Circle of the Tallulah Falls school and the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild.

There was just one thing that kept Bruce Montgomery's wedding to Anne Wynn Fleming on Tuesday from being absolutely perfect for the groom, and that was the fact that his only sister, Mrs. Edward Dalton White, of New York city, was unable to attend the nuptials. Bruce and his sister, the former Douglas Montgomery, have been unusually close pals so he just had to share some of his happiness with her. Consequently, he and his lovely bride left immediately after their wedding for a few days' visit with Douglas and her husband, a former well-known Atlantan, in the metropolis. Sally knows what a grand reunion they will have, after which the bridal couple will leave for a stay in the White mountains, where they will participate in winter sports.

Miss Clara Cole Honored at Parties.

Miss Clara Cole, popular bride-elect whose engagement to William T. Harrison was recently announced, is being honored at a series of pre-nuptial affairs. Mrs. Madge Schone gives a bridal shower on Saturday at 900 Greenwood avenue.

On Monday Miss Anne Crain and Mrs. Louise Anderson entertain several friends of the bride-elect at a dinner to be given at the Tavern tea room. Mrs. Carl Caldwell gives a bridal shower at her home, 655 Erin avenue, on February 17, in honor of Miss Clara Cole.

On Sunday evening she will be honored guest at the supper tendered by an officer of the Atlanta Jewish Welfare Fund at the Standard Club for the executive committee of the fund. Mrs. Levy-Stein is making a three-month tour of the United States in behalf of the Youth Aliyah Movement which is concerned with the settlement of German-Jewish children in Palestine.

High School Girls Will Compete In D. A. R. Good Citizenship Contest

By Mrs. Wheeler Tolbert, Press Relations Chairman for Georgia D. A. R.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 11.—Forty-eight high school girls, one from each state in the union, will be chosen this month in the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizenship Pilgrimage contest. The winners will be given a trip to Washington at the time of the 46th Continental Congress this April. They will be presented to the assembled delegates from the state of Georgia at the state convention of the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage contest. The winners will be given a trip to Washington at the time of the 46th Continental Congress this April. They will be presented to the assembled delegates from the state of Georgia at the state convention of the D. A. R. Good Citizenship Pilgrimage contest.

At the last Continental Congress the girls who made the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage were an outstanding feature. Texas vied with New York and California with Maryland as their winners came upon the stage. The Good Citizenship Pilgrimage is open to all high school girls. The senior students may choose by vote three girls of their class who excel in the qualities desirable in good citizens.

From these three girls the high school faculty selects one. Selections must be made on or before February 22, Washington's birthday. The name of the winner in each school is sent to the D. A. R. state chairman and final selections are made.

Mrs. William A. Becker, president general, in a message said: "The Good Citizenship Pilgrimage this year will be an inspiration to the youth of America. We will be ready to welcome these outstanding examples of good citizens. They will be entertained and honored and a special ceremony is being planned for their presentation before the congress."

Praising the work of her committee, Mrs. Raymond G. Kimball, chairman of the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage, said: "The pilgrimage has awakened in the communities of America a better understanding of the aims and ideals of our society. We are encouraging young people in character building. We are building good citizens."

Creamed Crab Meat Makes a Lenten Meal Festive.

By FLORENCE La GANKE

There are so many good sea food dishes that can be made that Nancy and her crowd welcomed the advent of Lent. It gave them a real reason for putting in creamed crab meat, lobster salad, baked oyster loaf, crab bisque, clam broth and shrimp salad.

In using canned shrimp Nancy was always careful to remove the thin black line which encircles the middle of the outer surface of the shrimp. A sharp knife takes this out and a rinse of cold water removes all traces of the body organ.

Shrimp and peas put into a cream sauce make a nice dish for after-theater suppers. The dish is called shrimp wiggle; a name incidentally which always seemed to amuse the guests.

For her creamed crab meat she omitted the peas but added a few other ingredients. The canned crab meat may be used. It needs nothing—no preparation other than the careful removal of the rather paper-thin but hardened tissue or bony structure.

To the crab meat a number of ingredients may be added. Suppose that the number of guests is large and the supply of crab meat is small. Add chopped green pepper, add chopped hard-cooked eggs, add chopped celery.

Nancy made a white sauce using two cups of milk, two tablespoons of flour, and three of butter. This was fairly thin but since she was adding an egg yolk to help thicken and enrich the mixture she skimmed on the flour. After the cream sauce was hot and smooth she poured into it the crab meat, about two cupsful. Then she seasoned this with three spices: salt, pepper and a suspicion of mace. She poured some of the mixture slowly over a beaten egg yolk. She stirred this well and then added three tablespoons cooking or table sherry. The mixture was then ready to be served on toast or with crackers. If tained quite another flavor by putting in some finely chopped raw celery about one-half cup of it. This gave a certain crunchiness to the mixture which was liked by many of her guests. With the creamed crab meat she liked to have a simple green salad and ripe and green olives. She usually had a supply of French bread which she had split, buttered, rubbed with garlic and then put back in the oven to heat. And for dessert she chose well-chilled fresh pears or a compote of Italian prunes and nectarines. Spice cake was a good accompaniment to the dessert.

Nancy has a leaflet on Waffles. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Nancy Page, care of The Atlanta Constitution, for it.

Hollywood Today

BY SHEILAH GRAHAM.

INTERVIEW WITH ROBERT E. SHERWOOD.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—Robert Emmett Sherwood is practically unique among playwrights—he resents being overpaid. And for this reason will not listen to the Hollywood tempters who beg for his signature on fat contracts.

"Screen writers get paid too much for too little work—the tallest paid writer in the world—6 feet 4 inches—stated. 'Life in Hollywood is not conducive to anything creative. Everything is too easy, too pleasant. That's why I never remain very long. After six months of California, I'd stay forever—and do nothing more for the rest of my life. If I ever sign a long term contract for pictures, you'll know it's because I'm through.'"

Sherwood, who arrived here a few days ago with his wife, former Mack Sennett star Madeline Hurlock, will remain in Hollywood three weeks only to complete the script of "Adventures of Marco Polo," for producers Sam Goldwyn and Douglas Fairbanks Sr., in which Gary Cooper is starred. Following his current assignment, the playwright leaves for England to write the coronation—also to prepare a new play in the quietude of his Surrey mansion.

"I bought the place five years ago—because it was in the opposite direction from Hollywood—I didn't know then that Alexander Korda's studios were only a few miles away."

The most successful of Sherwood's seven stories for the famed British producer, "The Ghost Goes West," made more money in this country than any other European picture.

"I'd certainly like to make another picture with Rene Clair (French director of the film). He's brilliant—and scared of Hollywood. He has a fetish for independence and has heard some terrible stories about how directors here are slave-driven."

According to Sherwood, Charles Laughton is another who has turned his back on Hollywood. "Laughton is this czar of the English picture business. He acts, writes, directs and decides everything about his films and no one—not even Korda—can dictate to him. Before producing 'Tembrandt,' Korda asked me to read the script. When I made suggestions to him for brightening it, it was as though I'd

"I may return to Hollywood for a few weeks in the fall to work on this script for M-G-M." (For British and the New York Herald. His best known plays include "The Road to Rome," "Petrified Forest," "Reunion in Vienna," "English version of 'Torricelli,' and 'Idiot's Delight,' to be produced on the London stage this summer.)

"The Peachtree Hills Club. The Peachtree Hills Woman's Club met recently at the home of Mrs. John T. Patton on Stephen Long drive. Mrs. Robert Flournoy, president, presided.

A report was made on the contribution given to the Red Cross for the flood sufferers.

Mrs. M. F. Flaum was asked to have charge of the program at the next meeting, honoring George Washington.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

EVERY REDUCER NEEDS VITAMINS.

If you are vitally susceptible to adipose tissue, you probably are deficient in vitamin concentrates for fear of gaining weight. Vitamins increase resistance, not weight, and you can only gain or lose a calorie excess or deficit.

No, I'm not trying to fool you just to keep you from catching a cold! Vitamins alone will not boost the weight scales. Doctors give vitamin concentrates to thin people not to help them gain, but merely to build up their general resistance and vitality so they will be in a better physical condition to gain on a high-calorie diet. However, impaired health does not make for abnormal weight, and you will not be in danger of taking on excess fat just because you feel better.

When it is necessary to restrict the calories because of a tendency to put on weight, the question is how to supply the minerals and vitamins within the calorie limit. Concentrated vitamins afford a maximum of protection with a negligible amount of calories, and it is probably safe to say that all reducers would have more zest for life for taking one Vitamin A and D capsule each day. And it follows that when you feel fit you take more interest in exercise and counting.

There are five vitamins which are essential to well-being—A, B, C, D, E. Some of these can be supplied in concentrates, while others must be taken in food. Vitamins A, B, C, D, and E are provided in a concentrated form of cod liver oil or in a preparation of halibut oil with vitamin E. Straight cod liver oil, however, contains 100 calories per tablespoon, so it is a better for the reducer to take the capsule form.

Vitamin C must be taken in food, and every diet should contain one citrus fruit daily. Canned orange juice, grapefruit, lemon juice and tomato juice all supply Vitamin C. This vitamin is easily destroyed in cooking, except in acids. Raw cabbage is an excellent source, but cooking this vegetable destroys the vitamin. Soda should not be added to tomatoes or other vegetables or fruits because it is destructive to Vitamins B and C.

Vitamin B is found in whole grains and cereals, therefore, because the amount of bread and cereals is restricted in the reducer's menu because of their calorie content, that used should be in the form of whole grain.

Since Vitamin G has been less publicized, you might be interested in knowing its role in nutrition. Vitamin G is sometimes termed Vitamin B2. It has a bearing on digestive functioning, nerve stability and a healthy condition of the skin. Milk is one of the most important sources of this vitamin since it also supplies calcium and phosphorus. Eggs and lean meats are good sources, and most fruits and vegetables supply Vitamin G. Skim milk contains as much Vitamin G as whole milk since fats are practically void in this vitamin. In fact, skim milk or buttermilk fits the reducer's needs with the exception of Vitamin A, and this can be obtained in a concentrated form.

If you include in your menu a normal amount of fish, eggs, lean meat, fruits and vegetables, you supply proper amounts of vitamins.

Grab the vitamins you need, in capsules or by spoonfuls.

The following menu is an example of how all the essential elements can be included on a minimum of calories. On such a menu you could lose three pounds a week and feel fit as a fiddle.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problem of general readers submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am a sophomore in college and have reached the point where some good advice is needed. Mother and Dad have planned for years to send me to college. Unforeseen circumstances that have arisen, coupled with depression losses have made big holes in their savings and I am a drain on them at a time when I should be saving money for my future. I have been thinking of taking a job, but I can't get a job just as well as I can a degree. To stay through the four years will mean a continuous pinching and scrimping on the part of my parents and it seems sensible and logical for me to get out and go to work. Any suggestions will be weighed well.

"ON THE FENCE."

My first suggestion is that you do a little scouting to see if you can find some jobs at college that will pay your expenses, or a part of them. It is possible for you to get your degree without incurring a financial burden on your parents. Discuss the question with your dean, asking for suggestions as to what sort of work is obtainable. There's always something to be done and if you are a star scholar this will probably be the easiest task for you. But there are others. Recently there was a story in the newspapers about the daughter of a well-known actress who was paying her way through a co-educational institution by earning her money as a model. She built up such a big business that she had to employ other girls to work for her. And she said that she didn't know which she enjoyed most, earning the money or making so many pleasant contacts.

My suggestion is talk it over with mother and dad. In this big decision they have set their hearts on seeing you stand on the rostrum, speaking in hand, maybe they had rather scrip and pinch and endure no end of sacrifice than to give up their dear dream.

A college education is what it is cracked up to be when a girl is going to teach. She can't draw down the top salary unless she has the degree. A college education is what it is cracked up to be if the girl has learned to think and if she has formed tastes for the cultural subjects she has studied. None of which is to say that she can't make a living or enjoy life without it. But the old

Diploma is worth more nowadays than it has ever been worth before. Many important business institutions take only college graduates into their ranks. During school summer camps and department stores advertise with the statement that they employ only college men and women.

In the light of these facts a girl shouldn't throw up her hands to get her diploma unless she has considered all the pros and cons in the case and tried to work out a plan by which she can relieve her parents and at the same time continue her course.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My boy friend and I get on like a summer breeze until we go out in public, then he seems to take a fiendish delight in making me jealous, which he always succeeds in doing. He makes love to me and says if he could afford it he would ask me to marry him but he has a poor job and a small salary. Not that the money makes any difference to me, but that I wonder if he is using it as an excuse. How is a girl to know if a man really cares for her? If he did would he deliberately make her suffer? SINCERE.

ANSWER:

Yes, there are some boys who delight to see a girl suffer the pangs of jealousy because of them. They get a big kick out of being able to inflict pain on their beloved. After marriage they continue to tease and torment their wives—unless the wives are cagey enough to conceal the fact that they are teased and tormented.

A girl is pretty safe to measure the boy friend's affection by his eagerness to be with her and by his frank discussion of his affairs when he is with her. When he says "If I could afford it, I would ask you to marry me," that's not frank. That's a trap. He hasn't committed himself to anything. On the contrary he has served notice on her that there's nothing doing for the present and no immediate prospect of improvement.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

(Posed by Gladys Swarhout.)

Round Shoulders Can Be Corrected If You Take Proper Exercises

Everyone admires the individual who stands and walks with an alert, wide-awake air. When a woman with an erect, graceful posture enters the room immediately your attention is drawn to her. She stands out from the rest of the crowd. You notice that her head is up and her shoulders are down. From her shoulders a good stretch across the entire chest in front. This stretches the muscles which have been shortened by the forward pull on the shoulders. The exercise as many times during the day as you have time to do them.

When you have finished exercising rub the chest, shoulders, back and arms with a lotion. I can tell you of one that is excellent for this purpose. This treatment will give you a rested feeling and it doesn't leave you sticky.

My Early

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—The reception last night is over and Lent has begun. When I was a child Lent meant to me the time when my grandmother insisted that I must give up sweets or something else I liked very much, for the good of my soul, and go to church as often as possible.

Now it means to me the time when official entertainments are over. But, if anything, there are more people to be seen than at any other time. Going to church is good for all of us, but when it can't be done, a little quiet meditation is a good substitute.

I kept the morning free today, but the entire afternoon is divided into half-hour appointments until I go out at tea time to say good-bye to an old friend who has been spending a few days in Washington.

The arm and hand reception last night was really very brilliant with all the uniforms, the women looking particularly attractive and charmingly dressed. Various old friends dating back to the days when my husband was assistant secretary of the navy came by us and we were very glad to see them.

Captain and Mrs. Dorn used to live not far from us, and he and I labored long and faithfully in the Navy Relief Society. I enjoyed every minute of the work and was so grateful for his wise guidance.

Admiral Coxe, who was in Paris during the World War, was greeted by my husband with great enthusiasm. I reminded Admiral Coxe of two poems which he and Admiral Sims wrote each other during their period service in London and Paris. Men and women must have, even in the most serious moments of life, some sense of humor to relieve the strain. My husband brought these rhymes home from abroad in the summer of 1918 and I have treasured them ever since.

Occasionally, those of us who deal with many people, have things happen which shake our faith in human beings. A few days ago I quoted from a letter which strengthens one's respect for the fineness of human nature. Today I must tell you a funny story at which one has to smile, but it is rather a wry smile.

A lady evidently decided she wanted something from me. She did not want to be entirely truthful and so when she wrote me, she also wrote to a friend telling what she had done, explaining certain things which might come about. She mixed her letters and I have the letter intended for the friend, and I rather imagine the friend has mine. Her letter follows below and I can only say that she shows a rather poor opinion of government investigators if she thinks she can fool them so easily.

"I know you will be surprised to hear from me but I am telling you what I want you to do. I think a letter is going to come to me from Mrs. B. and if it does you will know. The welfare people might send it to investigate. If it asks anything about my relatives don't mention them, say I don't have any, because I told them I lived on 1910 with a lady name of Mrs. B. and I don't have any people there. I am trying to get me a PWA job through Mrs. Roosevelt, and they are checking up on me, so don't say nothing, don't know nothing."

Sometimes I have thought that government investigators were a little too hard-boiled. But people like this lady bring that about, and the good must suffer with the bad.

INSTALLMENT XXIII.

"So you've checked up on him, too, have you?"

"No, I haven't. I hope?" The agent looked apologetic. Not waiting for her reply, he hurried on. "Now I'll come to the one factor which promises hope. You remember that young Indian we saw at lunch? Well, he's been after Dilworth's room. Acting on a hunch, I lay in wait in the alley at the back, and at two in the morning saw him trying to climb over the wall. He slid through my fingers. Now the latest bulletin is—"

Bream broke off. His eyes and Diana's, which widened with excitement, turned abruptly on the door leading to the dining room. There stood Inspector Headcorn, once more in their midst!

On taking his abrupt leave of Diana's flat, Headcorn descended the stairs and, ang Blundell's bell. Blundell, still wearing his overcoat, bustled forward to grasp the officer's hand.

"Well, inspector! Any further news from Holland?"

"Nothing worth mentioning. I've been saying that to Miss Lake, and I thought you'd want to hear it, too, seeing you've felt so much concern over the Fairland case."

The solicitor, his face fallen into heavier lines, nodded.

"The Lakes are among my oldest friends," he said. "Sit down, let's have details."

"They don't amount to much," the inspector said. "By the way, I've been poking about upstairs to test an idea I'd got, and I noticed what seems to be a blind door and was curious about it. Any particular reason for not walling it up?"

"You mean the door in the linen cupboard?" Blundell's three-cornered eyes lit with enjoyment as over a secret joke. "Come with me, I'll show you something worth seeing."

Propelling the inspector into the library, he brought him face to face with the long expanse of sunken bookcases. "Look," he ordered. Laying hold of the middle section of the bookcase, he pushed it aside with the utmost ease the whole section slid toward him on concealed casters. "How's that for a tidy bit of mechanism, eh? Go through, see what's behind."

Insinuating his bulk through the 18-inch space, Headcorn saw an arched door set flush with the wall. It slid aside at his touch and disclosed a dim cavity within which seemed a flight of curved stairs. Blundell, following, switched on a light which, flooding the stuffy corridor, revealed walls exquisitely paneled in fragrant cedar and a gray carpet soft and thick. Blundell waved a proud arm.

"There you are! Those stairs lead direct to the door you noticed. No use to me, but as Mrs. Somervell said, it was almost a sacrifice to rip out anything so neat and so handsome. O, Ryman knew how to spend! It landed him behind bars, eh? Let this be a lesson to you. I don't know of what it must have cost when it came under the hammer, else I shouldn't have bought it."

"These lower rooms were Ryman's own private ones, I take it," asked Headcorn, fingering the smooth cedar with a touch of awe.

"Let's go up and up above he's supposed to have kept it a sort of harem. Be that as it may, it was his fancy, when he'd worked late, to slip up this concealed way. When I saw a bit of dust collected in here, I held on till I fetch a duster, or you'll be smothered."

Again, Headcorn mounted the stairs, recalling as he did so various Aladdin-like tales of the former owner's extravagance. There had been one single dinner where each woman guest was presented with a diamond bangle, the men with dressing cases each costing a hundred pounds—all of which had been drained out of windows, failing clerks, and down-trodden school mistresses.

"Is this upper exit nailed up?" he called out.

"Only fastened from both sides," Blundell's voice floated up to him. "Mutual protection, as Mrs. Somervell used to say. I had the bolts put on."

There was little furring of dust on the woodwork. The carpet underfoot seemed cleaner than might have been expected. Headcorn studied the steel rods affixed to the door at top and bottom, felt their surfaces, removed the key protruding towards him and rubbed it between his fingers. He was holding his hand to his nostrils when Blundell came spryly around the curve below him, holding a yellow duster.

"Mind if I open this up?" the inspector greeted him. "Before I came down to you I took the liberty of undoing the lock and bolts from the other side."

Blundell's face fell boyishly.

"O! So you expected something of the kind?"

"Not stairs. I thought it would be box-rooms or what not."

"Might have done, after so long a time. I don't believe I've had it open this 12-month. Going to take the short cut, are you?"

Headcorn paused in the doorway. "I may as well, don't you think? I've left a bag behind and I'd like to apologize for barging off without a word just now. Good evening, sir. I promise to keep you informed if anything crops up."

"Do, inspector. And just see to those inside bolts, won't you?"

As they shook hands, the inspector thought that his host looked worried, yet driven on to further exertions by an unconquerable nervous energy. He gave forth an impression of boundless vitality and power, and that despite the yellowed tinge of aging features.

The door closed. In the inky darkness of the cupboard Headcorn held the key turn, the other pair of bolts shot into place. He performed his half of the fastening, unsniffed again at his fingers, and putting on the light, gazed meditatively at the snowy piles of linen. What he sought was not here, but in the second cupboard, among cleaning materials, he found it—a chemist's bottle with a greasy label and an inch of amber-hued liquid inside.

He reached the drawing room just in time to catch a few words spoken by his unofficial rival. Miss Lake and Bream were staring at a ghost.

"How on earth did you get in?" Diana demanded. "I heard you shut the front door."

Headcorn explained the phenomenon.

"Another staircase? Funny! I've never heard of it. Were you wondering if Elsie Dilworth used those stairs?"

"In a general way," returned the inspector guardedly and with a side glance at the third of the party. "Not there, but in the second cupboard, among cleaning materials, he found it—a chemist's bottle with a greasy label and an inch of amber-hued liquid inside."

He hesitated, glanced again at Bream, and with some awkwardness made his adieu. This time he did not return.

On quitting the house, Bream found his Scotland Yard acquaintance indifferently loitering at the nearest corner.

"Not gone, inspector?" he greeted him in some surprise.

Without speaking, Headcorn fitted his stride to Bream's shorter one and accompanied him to the Albert hall.

"The fact is," remarked Headcorn grudgingly, "there is just a possibility that your line of investigation and mine may have points of contact. If that's so, it seemed to me we might mutually benefit by—by getting together. O, quite unofficially," he muttered. "No obligation or premeditation on either side, you understand. What do you say to our sharing a meal?"

Bream acquiesced as unenthusiastically as though no extraordinary proposal had been made; and so it was that some 10 minutes later the two faced each other across a steak and sizzling chops, presided over by an outside bottle of ale.

"You've something concrete in mind, perhaps," ventured the free lance, betraying no sign of his secret triumph.

"Actually," replied Headcorn, now entirely human, "it was the Indian I heard you mention as I came back into the room. You did say Indian, I think?"

"I did, inspector. An Indian from Bombay, name of Haji, enrolled at the School of Economics, May I inquire why he interests you?"

"Simply his," Headcorn glanced about the quiet restaurant and sank his voice to a low rumble. "The pawnbroker's assistant, non-said and in a Dutch jail, caught one glimpse of the man who, he declares, brought the jewelry into the shop. Yes, the two articles taken from Miss Fairland's body. In notable distinction from his employer, he wears this man was an Indian—youthful, flashily dressed, and with two prominent gold teeth."

The news stunned Bream, stared hard, uncertain whether to be pleased or the reverse.

The inspector asked: "Does that description tally with your man?"

"It does. There can't be two of 'em. How is it you're not collared him?"

"Obstacles," said the inspector tersely. "In this general conspiracy to discredit this statement since it was given out by a man since charged with robbing the till, I myself took little stock of it till I caught your remark. I was inclined to share the Dutch police's view that the assistant wanted to revenge himself by representing his employer as a rogue—which undoubtedly is the case. The old man's excuse for not recognizing the jewels was that he'd broken his spectacles and couldn't see properly. That went also for his uncertainty as to the chap's appearance. Still, his word was given preference, and while they were chasing various men our Indian slipped away. Hajji, you said? That ought to prove a substantial help."

"He looked passage for Bombay last Wednesday. I got word of it too late to do anything," Headcorn said.

"No matter," broke in Headcorn eagerly. "Wednesday last? Boat called at Marseilles. Did you wireless the captain?"

"I did. And here's the reply." "Abdumajid Hajji went ashore before sailing failed to return luggage aboard but no passenger."

"I don't mind telling you unless we can lay hands on this Indian and Elsie Dilworth my 'accused' won't stand a dog's chance."

"And when they're found?" came the shrewd query. "Think it will help? Only if one of them confesses—"

"We can only stick to our separate lines of investigation and hope for the best," said Bream.

"With this difference," put in the inspector. "Your business is to overthrow the charge against Somervell. Mine is to locate Miss Fairland's murderer, whoever he may be; but if we clash?"

"You mean shall I regret this purely informal discussion? Never, inspector. If the worst happens, I suppose Somervell would as soon swing for two murders as for one. They'll have to prove the existing charge first before the other, hanging on it, can be preferred against him. Don't lose sight of that."

"You believe in him, do you? Don't tell me it's not in Somervell's nature to commit cold-blooded murder. That's a comit one."

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

It Is Nice to Recognize the Newest Generation With Gifts.

One of our readers wants to know whether or not it is all right to give gifts to a new born baby if he is not the first child in the family. She says that her girl friend told her that it was bad taste to give presents to any but the first child. She says that she took a gift to a newly arrived third child, and her girl friend gave her a severe dressing down.

Personally, we'd say that her girl friend was probably talking in self defense. She was no doubt miffed because she had forgotten to take a bundle herself.

We never heard of any such absurd rule for gift giving. If there is one, we blue pencil it right here and now, and we don't care who mauls it. You give gifts to celebrate things. And the arrival of a baby, even if it's the nineteenth, should be celebrated, we'd say.

Even looking at it logically, it would seem that the more babies, the more gifts are needed. Maybe we're just simple minded, but we believe in recognizing the new generation.

WEAPONS AND REVOLVERS. V—Machine Guns.

Of all deadly weapons for close-range work, the machine gun is the best—or perhaps the worst. It shoots death at a rate hard to believe.

The machine-gun might be called a fast-firing rifle. The idea of it is to shoot many bullets, about the size of rifle bullets, at a very rapid rate.

When the Gatlin gun was mounted on wheels, it looked something like a common field cannon of that time. It was, however, very different. Instead of one big barrel, there were 10 long, narrow barrels. Each barrel was about the size of a rifle barrel. A crank was turned so the 10 barrels would go round and round, being loaded over and over again as they turned. An early model of the Gatlin gun would fire 350 shots per minute. Later models fired from 500 to 600 shots per minute.

As years passed, other kinds of machine guns were invented on both sides of the Atlantic. German, French and British inventors all tried to make better ones than had been known before. A speed of from 1,000 to 1,500 shots per minute has been claimed by some of the more recent models.

Machine-guns were used with terrible effect during the World War, sweeping away the lives of thousands upon thousands of soldiers. They can be fired from airplanes as well as from the ground.

Tech Beats Auburn for Sixth Conference Win

'BO' JOHNSTON LEADS JACKETS WITH 18 POINTS

Aggressive Center Is the Difference in 42-28 Victory.

By Jack Troy.

With Auburn battling like caged tigers, Tech's Jack Johnston found plenty of comfort last night in the brilliant all-around play of his golden-attired mates to their sixth straight conference victory by a score of 42 to 28, before the largest crowd of the season in the naval armory. Johnston scored 18 points.

A packed house saw Tech go for eight minutes of the first half with a score of 14 to 0, yet lead 8 to 2. All because Bo Johnston had three free throws and made them all good.

It was a bit disconcerting to the Jackets to find the ball-hounding Auburn players, although unable to get the tip, pounding up and down the court and breaking up the continuity of their pass work.

Still, class and height will tell in basketball. Auburn covered up and all the Tech stars except Bo Johnston in the first half. The Tigers tried to stop him, but it was futile.

TECH LEADS. And Tech led, 19 to 9, at the half, mainly because Johnston shot 14 points. He was up and down the court, shining on defense and leading on offense.

At one point it was 29 to 11. Ed Jones shot three field goals in fairly rapid succession.

The Tigers rallied. Malvern Morgan, who shoots one-handed, found the basket three times and Red McKissick twice. Red Childers went out on four fouls and Pappas came in at guard, with Eaves going to center. Pappas found the range. And Tech's lead was whittled to 10 points, 32 to 22.

TECH COMES BACK. But Johnston, Ed Jones and Fletcher Sims started firing away and Tech quickly pulled away. And so, with the time running out and with the Jackets having the situation well in hand, Coach Roy Muddoff ran in fresh players to finish the game.

Bo Johnston's 18 points seem to tell the story of the game fairly adequately. When Tech needed the points, Johnston got them.

Johnston had a chance to score 22 points, but missed four free throws. He shot six out of 10 for a very nice average.

MORGAN FIRES AWAY. Auburn's leading scorer, Morgan, was deadly with those one-handed shots. He made five of them, despite Tech's close guarding.

The game was beautifully handled by Ben Chapman, whom Coach Muddoff imported from Birmingham for the purpose of giving his players a test of tournament officiating.

Chapman called them close. And Tech lost the ball a great deal on running and holding it too long in the zone.

He also taught the students a lesson on hooping when an opponent is trying to shoot a free throw. Pappas had one shot. The students yelled. He gave Pappas another one on a technical foul. They kept on yelling and he gave Pappas a third shot, all of which he made good. This would have counted heavily in a closer game.

BOO AGAIN. Later on Sims had a free throw. The students booed for two minutes. It was a joking gesture called to get back at Chapman. They demanded that he give Sims a couple of extra shots.

Between halves, the student section partially undressed a freshman, tossed his boots onto the court for the entertainment of the crowd.

Whack Hyler stood out on defense for Tech, with Sims handling the other guard in great fashion and excelling for his timely good shooting.

Joel Eaves, Atlanta boy, and McKissick played the best ball for Auburn, along with the slick-shooting Morgan.

Tech's next conference game is scheduled Saturday night at Nashville against the Vanderbilt Commodores.

The Flying Dutchman Takes Time Out

Big Dutch Konneman, Georgia Tech's star halfback, yesterday had his tonsils removed. They were the items which kept him out of some games last fall and which caused him to lose 16 pounds in two weeks. He is shown having a look at the tonsils, all bottled up after the operation, with Miss Katherine Gilman, the nurse, in charge. He is at the Ponce de Leon Eye, Ear and Throat Infirmary. And doing well. His tonsils set a record for size. "Koon" was named on several all-southeast teams last year.

BULLDOGS, BEARS CLASH TONIGHT

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 11.—A 15-minute session of sharpening up their eyes for the basketball tonight concluded Georgia's preparation for the Mercer game at Macon Friday night.

Harry Harman, guard, and Jack Farren, center, missed one or two workouts this week due to illness and injury. He will be able to play in both games this week-end. Farren's ankle is considerably better and Harman is recovering rapidly from a case of sore throat.

Coach Rex Enright tonight was debating whether to start Captain Charles Harold or Ralph Head at the left forward post. It is likely that Harold will open the game since he is more experienced and will be playing before a home-town audience. Head will come in for much service, however. Jack Farren, at center, and Olin Thompson and Harry Harman at guards are the other starters.

The Bulldogs return to Athens Saturday and will face Clemson as a part of a tri-state program at Woodruff Hall.

Forrest Towns Reports for Practice. ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 11.—Forrest Towns, Georgia's Olympic champion high hurdler, became just another track candidate today.

The freckle-faced Augusta boy engaged in light exercise as he reported officially for the first time. He will captain the Georgia squad this season.

Tinsley Offered Pro Grid Contract. ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 11.—The fruits of Pete Tinsley's labors against Fordham continued to pile up today. The big Georgia guard today received an offer from the New York Yankee pro football team. Since Tinsley is a junior he had to turn it down flat.

Due to a major league rule, pro outfits are not supposed to approach college athletes until they have closed out their career. Officials here said the New York team must have been under the impression that Tinsley was to graduate this spring.

Bullpups Streak Reaches Nine. ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 11.—Georgia's undefeated freshman basketball team was forced into an extra period in trouncing Canton High school 31-28 here tonight. Cecil Kelly and Robert Horne with 14 and four points each, respectively, led the winners.

Clark with 10 was best for the losers. It was the ninth straight victory for the bullpups.

THE LINEUPS. CANTON (28): Kelly (14), Horne (4), McNeill (8), Sims (2), Elford (6). Georgia (31): Clark (10), Horne (4), McNeill (8), Sims (2), Elford (6).

Substitutions: Fresh: Reid, Woodall and McDonald (11); score at half, Canton, 15-12.

PROS AT HOUSTON. HOUSTON, Texas, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Professional golf's nomads invaded Texas today for the $3,000 Houston Open tournament starting tomorrow.

Sam Snead, 24-year-old White Sulphur Springs, Va., ex-caddy who won two of California's winter tournaments, and Harry Cooper, of Chicago, leading money collector of the season, headed the entries.

KELLEY TO STUDY. PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 11.—(UPI)—Larry Kelley, versatile Yale University sports star who was an All-America football player last season, probably will enter the Princeton graduate school this autumn, the Daily Princetonian said today.

N.G.I.C. To Meet This Afternoon

Application of Athens High, LaGrange and Rome, invited to join the North Georgia interscholastic conference in December will be the principal topic of discussion at 5 o'clock this afternoon at a conference meeting at Fulton High school.

An open meeting of a number of North Georgia coaches was held last Saturday morning, with the purpose of organizing a North Georgia high school conference, but the teams failed to organize.

Fulton and Commercial High were not invited to the meeting, but attended in the interest of the N. G. I. C. and it was voted to include Athens, LaGrange, Rome, Elberton, Cartersville and Cedartown, in the group, but nothing definite along an organization was done.

Such members as desire are invited to join, but only Rome, LaGrange and Athens have shown enough interest to warrant their being admitted.

Another meeting of the N. G. I. C. will be called for 4:30 o'clock Monday at the Fulton High school for the purpose of completing details pertaining to the annual basketball tournament week after next.

Washington Seminary Beats North Fulton

Washington Seminary defeated North Fulton, 28-17, last night on the North Fulton court at Buckhead.

The Seminary sextet battles Sacred Heart next Tuesday and has a return engagement with North Fulton next Friday.

COLD WEATHER FAILS TO HALT GRANT'S DRILL

Mighty Midget, Greatest Clay Courts Player, Prepares for Budge.

The current cold snap is not keeping Bryan Grant off the tennis court. Grant played several fast sets yesterday with Dr. Kells Boland, his sparring mate.

Bitay realizes that a lack of practice would hurt him in his match with Budge here Sunday afternoon. For Budge, in Florida, is working out every day.

And so nothing short of snow or sleet could keep Bitay indoors. He's at the top of his game and intends to stay that way.

COURT IN SHAPE. Marion Reese and Donald Elkins, who are staging the match, reported yesterday that the No. 1 court at the Baltimore, Peachtree and Fourth streets, has been worked over and is in excellent condition.

Seating arrangements for 1,000 fans have been provided. Reserved-section seats are expected to be at a premium. They are on sale at a downtown sporting goods store on Broad street. The price is $1.10. General admission is 85 cents.

Grant and Budge have played only one other exhibition match this season. Budge won in two sets at St. Petersburg.

In regular tournament play, Grant has beaten Budge two out of three. The recent Surf Club match marked the first time the lanky Californian star ever had beaten Bitay in a tournament match on clay.

AT TOP OF GAME. Grant today is regarded as the world's greatest hard-surface player. There are some players who are figured good enough to beat him, but not as often as he will beat them.

His standing with Budge, America's No. 1 player, substantiates this belief. Out of five matches, Grant has won four. Four of the five were played on clay, one on grass.

A new Grant, employing a smashing forehand and adopting forcing tactics when the opportunity offers, will be seen Sunday. He's out to win before the homefolks but recognizes it will take the best he has in him to do it.

Disregarding, for the moment, the demands of Joe D'Amico for something like a 100 per cent boost in his 1936 freshman year salary, Ruppert revealed that First Baseman Lou Gehrig had been offered $31,000 and was asking $50,000. Pitcher Red Ruffing had been offered $15,000 (a $5,000 raise) and wants $30,000; Outfielder Jake Powell, $7,500 and demanded $14,000, and Pitcher Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, $7,500 (a $2,500 cut). Gomez sent his contract back without comment.

"I can understand how a man and his employer can be a few thousand dollars apart on a single year's salary," said Ruppert of his world championship holdouts. "But when a man asks $19,000 a year more, that's another thing."

When Ruppert revealed the extent of Gehrig's demands, Lou pointed out in a formal statement that the Yankees haven't needed a reserve first baseman for 12 years, and because of this they were in a position last year to sell three first basemen for a reported price of $105,000.

Johnny Murphy, Yankee pitcher, came to terms today. This brought the number of contracts in the Yankee safe to 16, but left six on the doubtful list. These are Pitchers Pat Malone, Johnny Broaca, and Walt Brown, Catcher Bill Dickey, Infielder Frankie Crosetti and Outfielder Myril Hoag.

SINGTON, CHAPMAN TOGETHER AGAIN

"Ben's one of the finest basketball officials in the business," Freddie said. "He was a great player, too. Next to baseball, that's been his game."

When they squared around for a picture, Ben pointed to a table. "You sit on the bench, Freddie."

"Aw give me a break, Ben. You never sit on the bench and that's where I've spent a goodly part of my baseball career."

THE SPORT LIGHT

By Frankfort Rice

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—The unbelievable probably happens more often in sport than in any other phase of life on this whirling globe. The rise of Babe Ruth from an industrial school to world-wide fame—the return of James J. Braddock—Max Schmeling—the winning of a Kentucky Derby by Bold Venture, a 25-to-1 shot, ridden by Ira Hanford, an apprentice jockey—the amazing career of Jerome Hunsader—these are some of the story-book tales that have come true on the field of sport. And quite unbelievable as any of these is the story of Connie Mack.

Active in baseball for more than a half century, Connie turned 74 recently—and even more recently he took upon himself, in addition to his other duties, those of president of the Philadelphia club. It is obvious that, to say the least, Connie is far from the pipe and slipper stage. A half century of playing and managing apparently has done no more than to whet his appetite for the half century that lies just ahead of him. Certainly none of the younger men in baseball has shown any more initiative or any more vigor.

A Backward Glance. It is impossible for even the middle-aged followers of the game to take in the full sweep of Connie's remarkable career. It is, let them look back to the era of Babe Waddell, Ossie Schreck, Lave Cross, Eddie Plank and Danny Murphy and the other heroes of the era just after the turn of the century, when ball players had collars on their shirts and wore those funny round caps.

There isn't any secret to Connie's endurance, his magnificent indifference to the marching years. At least, if there is, it is no fault of his.

The source of his strength is the ability to relax—which is the first of all virtues. It is the first of all virtues. It is the first of all virtues. It is the first of all virtues.

WIFE FREED IN SLAYING. GULFPORT, Miss., Feb. 11.—(UPI)—A jury in Harrison county court late today acquitted Mrs. Corrine Smith Mattina, 24, on a charge of manslaughter in the knife killing of her husband, Anthony Mattina, 51, in their home here October 8. She testified she had suffered an "unmistakable beating" from her husband.

FRUITS DAMAGED. SUMMERVILLE, Ga., Feb. 11.—It is believed that this week's freeze damaged the fruit crop in Chatham county heavily. The warm weather during the past several weeks having caused trees to bud, some pear, plum and peach trees being in bloom. Vegetables have also been badly damaged by the cold.

Light Army Tanks Get Public Tryout

PORT MEADE, Md., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The army's newest defense weapon, a light tank capable of swift maneuvering over rough country, had its first public tryout today.

Army officers declined to reveal some details of the new machine. It was learned, however, that the 10-ton engine is capable of 45-miles per hour speeds. The tank carries 3 machine guns able to fire in all directions, is completely equipped with radio and carries a crew of four men.

In today's demonstration, six of the tanks ploughed through a small forest, knocked over trees four to six inches in diameter, crossed ditches, moved rapidly up and down steep slopes and through heavy sand with the speed and agility of a cavalry troop.

SOUTH DAKOTA REJECTS CHILD LABOR PROPOSAL. PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The South Dakota house rejected the federal child labor amendment today without a record vote after three hours' debate. The resolution proposing ratification was killed by the child welfare committee.

The state legislature has rejected the proposed amendment four times previously.

DENIES 'SHORT HAUL' WAR. WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Joseph B. Kerr, representative of the Association of American Railroads, denied today proposed repeal of the long-and-short-haul clause of the interstate commerce act would cause a rate war between rail and water transportation lines.

ARMY OFFICER'S WIFE WINS CUSTODY BATTLE. YORK, S. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Attorneys here received a copy of an order by Judge E. C. Dennis today giving the custody of 9-year-old Richard H. Hilton Jr. to the child's mother, Mrs. Virginia Evans Hertford, of Charleston.

The child was left with Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Lee, of Fort Mill, S. C. by its father, the late Richard H. Hilton, former state commander of the American Legion, after his divorce from Mrs. Hilton.

Mrs. Hilton later married Lieutenant K. F. Hertford, a member of the United States Military Academy faculty, and brought court action to gain custody of her son.

BUZZARD'S ROOST PLEA IS SCHEDULED TODAY. ROCK HILL, S. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Attorneys representing Greenwood county and the Duke Power Company are expected here tomorrow to argue the power company's petition that the Public Works Administration produce documents for consideration by the court when the Buzzard's Roost hydroelectric project is argued February 23.

Tomorrow's hearing is to be before Judge J. Lyles Glenn.

The Duke company, renewing a long fight against construction of a PWA-financed power project for the county, is seeking an injunction.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN TO BE BURIED HERE. Attempts To Establish Identity Fail; Fingerprint Lack Cited.

Unidentified after three weeks of investigation by officials of the West Side Funeral Home and other agencies, a man who was struck down and killed by an automobile January 23 on Marietta street near Thurmond, will be buried Saturday afternoon in Hill Crest cemetery following funeral services at 2 o'clock at the Bellwood Baptist church, with the Rev. DeWitt Regan officiating.

Shortly after the fatal accident he was tentatively identified as Robert B. Callaway, son of an Alabama judge, but subsequent investigation disproved this identification. Police here pointed out that his identity might easily have been established had his fingerprints been on file in the Federal Bureau of Identification office in Washington.

Atlanta police are carrying on a campaign to record fingerprints of all citizens here in order to identify persons who are victims of accidents and crimes, and for other non-criminal purposes.

DEFENSE ASKS DATA IN SLAYING OF GIRL. DONALDSONVILLE, La., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Defense counsel for three men and two women accused of murdering Miss Genevieve Legnon, 16, during a night club party, will seek to learn through a preliminary hearing tomorrow the prosecution version of how and why the girl was fatally injured.

The hearing, to which Defense Counsel George Blum said the defendants were "entitled" after officials kept silent as to the motive and manner of Miss Legnon's death, will open at 10 a. m. in the Ascension parish courthouse.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Although the weight of offerings resulted in more losses than gains in the bond market today, there was plentiful evidence of support in most sectors of the list.

TO LEWIS BY GREEN VOTED IN N. C. SENATE

C. I. O. Head To Seek Shorter Hours, Higher Wages in Coal Fields.

House Passes Measure To Continue 3 Per Cent Sales Tax.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—John L. Lewis' foes within the American Federation of Labor contended tonight that he suffered a severe defeat in the General Motors strike just ended.

Soon after the peace was signed, President William Green, of the Federation, issued a statement expressing "regret" that Lewis had been forced to "surrender."

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 11.—(AP)—A social security measure providing aid to needy and dependent children won near-unanimous approval in the senate today, while the house voted to continue the three per cent sales tax on purchases of 10 cents or more and to add bread and pills to the list of necessities exempt from the levy.

The social security bill carried in

While Lewis argued that the automotive industry was not ready to meet the demands of the CIO, Green said Lewis did not win his fight for recognition of his union as the exclusive bargaining agent for the industry.

Green and Lewis now lead rival labor movements. Green is spokesman for the federation unions which think skilled workers should be organized by their own unions.

Lewis is trying to bring all the workers in each large industry into one big union.

The lesson to be learned from the General Motors strike, Green told reporters, was that "a fight for the kind the solidarity of all labor in the United States and Canada is needed."

"The whole army of labor is injured and weakened by the kind of fight labor sustains a defeat," he added.

From Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, came a statement that the CIO would not fight the senate 45 to 45 vote and would send the CIO to the states to fight the provisions of the new law. The maximum aid age grants would be $30 a month and the maximum aid for a child would be $18 a month, with the maximum for a second child, conditional for each additional child, not more than $85 a month.

An amendment was adopted providing for the funding and should revert to the state and counties. The federal government should cease aiding in the program.

ALABAMA SEES FIGHT ON SALES TAX MEASURE

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 11.—(AP)—Members of the Alabama legislature spent a recess day today patching fences for the fight tomorrow in the senate over a two-cent general sales tax bill already passed by the house.

ment that the country should have a more stable monetary policy. He said the strike cost workers and management $2,000,000 a day for 42 days.

To Ask Wage Increase.

With the General Motors strike settled, Lewis now will try to win higher wages and shorter hours for about 100,000 workers in the automobile industry. Workers in the bituminous coal fields.

The present agreement between the miners and operators expires March 15. The union says it wants to have decided that the work week be increased from 35 to 40 hours, with no wage increase. Coal men expect the union to demand a 10 percent wage increase of at least 15 per cent.

Negotiations are to start next Wednesday in New York and labor men attach much less than usual significance to the outcome.

Lewis has already begun an attempt

Committee action today was negligible. The union is not a party to a fight dominating political interest.

Opinion was about evenly divided on the outcome, and veteran observers noted that a narrow vote margin would decide the fight.

The sales tax bill calls for repeal of the state's new 1-1/2 per cent gross receipts tax law that went into effect January 1, and a 10 percent aluminum and brass tokens to facilitate collection from the consumer.

SECURITY AMENDMENT RATIFIED IN CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 11.—(AP) The general assembly ratified a bill to place a social security amendment in the constitution today and then both houses agreed to pass a resolution to evolve a plan of speedy assistance.

The bill which would change the to bring all the workers in the steel industry into the union. The steel industry is made up of the steel plant, the iron, steel tin workers. The steel and coal industries are related. Coal is needed to make steel and steel companies own many coal mines.

Lewis has expressed a belief that the same financial interests, in some instances are back of both the steel and coal companies. He also has said the some coal operators have been drawn into what he describes as a "united front" of industry against him.

The miners' contract with the operators provides that operators shall deduct union dues from pay envelopes and remit them to the union. The operators. Lewis is financing a good share of his entire campaign from this money. A long coal strike would cut off this revenue. "check-off" enters the Johnston previously announced he was eager to sign the measure.

ARKANSAS HOUSE VOTES NEW RANGER BILL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 11.—(P)—The Arkansas house of representatives indorsed today the state ranger department, voting to set up a new department.

Only 14 negative votes were cast. Seventy-seven voted in the affirmative.

Under the bill, the rangers would take over all highway patrol duties formerly handled by the state revenue picture in another way, also. The steel companies that operate mines now are collecting funds to help Lewis organize employees in their own steel mills.

From these facts and opinions, labor observers for months have tried to deduce the campaign to a head with simultaneous strikes in steel and coal April 1 or insure his union's income by a settlement with the coal operators. Lewis has been attempting to win agreements from steel.

Lewis refuses to answer these questions, and even some of his closest friends profess not to know what his strategy will be.

Lotteries Approved By Nevada Senate

CARSON CITY, Nev., Feb. 11.—(AP)—The Nevada senate today approved 13 to 4, a resolution to legalize lotteries in this state.

Senator W. A. Marsh said the purpose was to make lotteries a state monopoly so taxes might be reduced and a real old-age pension plan be put through instead of this paper's relief program we have before us.

"We already have gambling," he continued, "and it's no more immoral for the state to collect from a lottery than from other gambling devices."

Druid Hills and two important industrial centers.

The committee, on motion of Councilman John T. Marler, amended the resolution to annex the whole of the city of Peachtree Creek to the city of Atlanta.

Engineer Raymond Torres to place the northern-most line at Peachtree creek. The paper will submit a bill to amend the city's charter to include the section from the present city limits to the creek from Piedmont road to Northside drive.

Robert F. Maddox, former mayor; Former Governor John M. Slaton and Attorney Reuben Arnold were among those opposing annexation of the entire Buckhead area. They pointed out that the city will add to its burdens by annexation instead of reducing its financial stress. They said the district has a bonded indebtedness for schools of $750,000 and would not yield enough to increase revenue to pay for city services and schooling.

Mayor Hartsfield declared the question of annexation is not merely one of finances but that solid, home-owning citizens are moving out of the city and degenerating the citizenship of the town. "It is this type of home owner that Atlanta needs to vote for good government," he said. He pointed out that none of those who opposed annexation can vote in the city. They asserted that most of them pay 50 to 100 times as much city taxes as they do on their homes, which are located in the county.

Alderman I. Gloor Hailey, chairman of the committee, also spoke in opposition to the annexation program. The adverse reports on annexation of Druid Hills and the Cherokee plant and the King Plow Company will be returned to council with the one favorable report.

The revision of the pension system was referred to the municipal legislation committee.

Assembly to Honor Georgia Anniversary

Joint Session To Mark 204th Birthday of State, Proclaimed by Governor.

The senate and house of representatives will meet in joint session at 9:30 o'clock this morning to observe Georgia Day, proclaimed yesterday by Governor Rivers.

The session will be presided over by Senate President John B. Spivey. Spivey, with Speaker Roy V. Harris of the house, said the ceremony would be brief and that the galleries would be open to the public.

Governor Rivers' proclamation, marking the 204th anniversary of the founding of the state, follows:

Whereas, Friday, February 12, the people of our state are asked to observe the 204th anniversary of Georgia, the youngest, the most remote and the most sparsely settled of the thirteen colonies, but today far from the youngest, by no means the most remote and the most sparsely settled. In coal, iron, metals, in timber and water power, in capacity to sustain population, in value and variety of products, in climate, Georgia is surpassed by no equal area of the world's surface. Too long these blessings have been neglected, but today intelligent people are awakening to these blessings and are providing our children and people with the facilities through education to utilize these unsurpassed, these natural gifts.

Whereas, Our past makes us praiseworthy and appreciative and our present makes us proud of our people to train a state of cooperative men and women to manage it, to hear in mind always that democracy is a way of going rather than an end. Those who think in terms of tomorrow move on.

Whereas, It is commendable to note that the Georgia Department of the American Legion is again sponsoring Georgia products dinners, and the example should be followed by all other organizations, hotels and homes.

Whereas, God has wonderfully blessed our state in industry, in agriculture, and in numerous ways. While economic and social security may be the test of any state and of any civilization is not merely the material prosperity but its wealth in the things of the human spirit—education and religion.

Therefore, I, R. D. Rivers, Governor of the State of Georgia, do hereby appoint and set aside Friday, the twelfth day of February as Georgia Day throughout the state, and urge all of our people on that day to observe the day with patriotic celebrations in gratitude for our many blessings and with the determination to aid in every way toward advancing Georgia. Let us give ourselves at least for one day to Georgia—her past, present, and future—proud of her glorious past and work and pray for a more glorious future.

Witness my hand and the seal of the State of Georgia at the City of Atlanta, this 11th day of February, 1937.
